

SEASONAL TAILS

Summer is the hottest time when streets can blister feet, when it would be a major crime if wags can't beat the heat.

Autumn is the perfect time to walk the rainbow trails where leafy colors shout their prime and dogs sport hunting tails.

Winter is a quiet time encased in cold and snow with sidewalks iced by frozen grime when tails curl close and low.

Springtime is a fickle time when storms bash weather vanes, when sunshine makes our spirits climb, when dogs' tails splash spring rains.

Seasons are the perfect times to do our dog review for they can bring me canine rhymes and happy tails to you.

by Lee Netzler