Annual SCOTTISH TERRIER Issue

HERE is the 1962 annual Scottish Terrier issue of DOG NEWS. We hope you find it enjoyable, and we do want to take this opportunity to thank the many breeders and fanciers who supported it with news, advertising and pictures. We believe that the several articles in the issue and the data on the current Champions will be of great value to every sincere breeder.

CH. GAIDOUNE GREMLIN

*Owned and bred by Helen B. Gaither
Wheeling, W. Va.*

A litter brother to Ch. Gaidoune Gavin and a third member of the litter is also finished.

And now for some general news. The first item came as somewhat of a shock. The Scottish Terrier Club of Kentucky, Inc., at its January meeting approved a resolution suspending for an indefinite period of time, its show-giving activities.

Over the past seventeen years the Scottish Terrier Club of Kentucky presented a Puppy Sweepstakes and an annual Specialty show, and the event became famous its reasons for suspending its show activities are good and sufficient but is not discussing them. It does wish to express its sincere appreciation to all who, over the years, combined to make the shows a great success.

We hear that Ch. Gilkey's Johnny Come Lately, owned by Mrs. John Gilkey, left with Porter Washington for the four Brazilian Kennel Club shows, but have heard nothing as yet as to results. Mrs. Gilkey is very proud of Johnny. He lost the Best of Breed trophy given by the STC of A by one point. His full brother, Gilkey's Johnny Appleseed won the Puppy Dog trophy, and his daughter, Ch. Gilkey's Tumbleweed, the American-bred Bitch Trophy.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Graham's Todhill Kennels, Rome, N. Y., had a great year and were extremely active. Their Ch. Special Edition is the current leading sire with five Champions to his credit and he won the STC of A annual Winning Trick Memorial Trophy as leading sire. Special Edi-

World's Fair. The show will be benched and there will be a fabulous trophy list.

Thomas B. Collins, Jr. is President of the Washington State Scottish Terrier Club and the Collins have finished their very first Champion, Jo-Lee Maverick, which is on the current list. He is the third Champion for his dam, Am. and Can. Ch. Jo-Lee Lucky Seal, and he finished with two five's and a four-point major.

CH. VIEWPARK VINDICATOR

Dr. and Mrs. T. Allen Kirk, Jr.
Roanoke, Va.*

A well traveled little import, which the Kirks bought as a puppy two years ago in Scotland. He rode with them from John O'Groats to Lands End, and has also traveled the breadth of this country.

The Heywood Hartley's Ch. Woodhart Waterloo can well be proud of his two 1961 Champions. Woodhart Wingover finished in five straight shows, all majors. He was Winners Dog at Montgomery County—the STC of A Specialty. Ch. Woodhart Waitabit is a lovely black bitch now owned by Bud Wright, Oberlin, Ohio and Rich-from coast-to-coast. Many of these Specialty shows were among the largest in the country and certainly some of the greatest Scottish Terriers competed at the events. The 1961 show with the Saturday night dinner and get-together with the W. Stewart Carters as hosts was certainly on a par with any preceding events. The Club feels tion is also a great winner and in August was Best in Show All Breeds at the Central New York event. Another Todhill Champion, Honest John, shown but a few times in 1961, topped the New England Specialty and at this same show, Bear Necessity, a young son of Ch. Todhill Cinnamon Bear was Best of Winners, repeating this five-point win and completing his title at the Greater Washington Specialty in October. Todhill Promise, a young Winning Trick granddaughter is now being shown at Eastern events by John Murphy.

With all the good news there was a sad occurrence at Todhill in October, when their beloved Ch. Friendship Farm Diploma passed away.

Publicity continues to pour in regarding the Washington State Scottish Terrier Specialty to be held June 16th. More and more enthusiasm is being evidenced to make this Specialty an outstanding part of the Panorama of Seattle Century 21

Blanche Reeg says that 1961 was a pleasant year at Blanart, not as exciting of course as the two preceding ones when Bewitching was strutting her stuff. In 1961, three Blanart-bred Scotties finished their Championships—Blanart Beguiling, owned by Betty Malinka, Barcee's Duke and Barcee's Dutchess still at the home kennel. Mrs. Reeg also owns Ch. Blanart Ballyhoo which won two groups from the classes with other placings at sixteen months of age. There's a sad note of course with the recent loss of Ch. Blanart Shown winning the Group at Harford County last April. Judge, Wm. Kendrick; Anne Rogers handling. Carnival had a great year, won the Francis G. Lloyd Trophy for Scottie winning most points for Best of Breed in entire country, also won the Jane C. Moloney Trophy for Kennel obtaining the most Best of Breed points.

Bud Wright from Oberlin, Ohio, is the owner of the new Champion, Poverty Hill Status Seeker, which finished his Championship with three five-point majors.

Had a nice letter from Berwyn and Zelma Lungwitz of Zelwyn Kennels, Wichita, Kansas. They tell us the past year had been good to them, although they did not show as much as in previous years. They spent considerable time in studying the breed and making plans for improvement. They are hoping in the coming year to send one or two of their dogs farther afield, so they can learn how they compare with those in distant places. We were happy to note that their continuous ad in Dog News had brought wonderful results and we quote: "We have been using Dog News as our only media and the ad has brought us inquiries from as far west as Arizona, south as far as Louisiana, east as far as Ohio and north as far as the Dakotas. Our kennels (located in Wichita) are recognized wherever we go and we frequently hear "We saw your ad in Dog News." Stud services increased many fold, and we have had as many as three bitches in at one time for service. We are grateful to Dog News and the choice clientele it has brought us."

Had good news from Cornelia Crissey, who tells us that at last Crisscot has a home and kennel all its own. It is located at Wappingers Falls, N.Y. As a matter of fact, there is no kennel as yet but as soon as the ground "unfreezes," building will begin.

The year 1961 was a good one for Ch. Crisscot Carnival. He was Best of Breed at the Miami Specialty, won the group at Baltimore, and had many group placings and Best of Breed wins. He won the Frank G. Lloyd Trophy for the Scottish Terrier winning the most points in Best of Breed for the entire country, and also won the Jane C. Moloney Memorial Trophy for the kennel obtaining the most Best of Breed points. Carnival's granddaughter, Crisscot Circus Rider, won the 9-12 months Sweepstakes at the STCA Specialty in October. Cornelia adds that Carnival could never have made this record had it not been for his handler, Anne Hone Rogers, who worked so hard with him and kept him in such beautiful condition she was able to show him week after week.

The Scottish Terrier Club of America's annual meeting was held February 11th, the following officers being elected: President Col. Richard W. Dr. T. Allen Kirk, Jr., of Roanoke, Va., has been hard at work on his book of Scottish Terrier Pedigrees. This will cover all American Champions, similar to Mrs. Casperz' book on English Champions. The Doctor tells us he has all but about 60 of the Champions complete through eight generations. He is hoping to have it finished in 1962. It is really a colossal job.

Int. Ch. Cedar Root Gaydes Gold, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Reason A. Krick of Indianapolis, died a few months ago of old age. They had owned him about two years. He was shown by Mrs. Robertson's Glad-Mac's Kennels and though she was reluctant to part with him when the Kricks were anxious to get a litter from him, she finally did, and he produced a litter of which the puppy, Sharonlane Cedar Echo pictured, is a member.

We are sure nobody has more fun out of their Scotties than the Millard Whites. They never go any place without them and since they take frequent vacations and camping trips, the dogs are really much-traveled Terriers. On a recent trip they went to the Phoenix and Mesa, Arizona shows and they entered their American and Canadian Champions Cragman Chosen Child and Cragman Clansman. There were 18 entries at Phoenix with six Specials and pretty much the same entry at Mesa. At Phoenix, Clansman was Best of Breed; Ch. Chosen Child, Best Opposite.

British Notes

By Alice Exworthy
273 Durand St.
E. Lansing, Mich.

IT WAS British Terrier day on both sides of the Atlantic as Cruft's, Westminster and the New York Terrier Specialties ushered in the 1962 show calendar. At Westminster, the imported West Highland White, Ch. Elfinbrook Simon, went to the top. Piloted by handler, George Ward, Simon has an impressive record of Best in Show and Group wins over the past two years. In Scottish circles, Br. and Am. Ch. Walsing Wild Winter of Barberry Knowe won the Specialty and was Best of Breed at the Garden.

Cruft's entries were down with 7,311 dogs in competition compared to 7,892 last year. Cairns topped the huge Terrier entry with 107 dogs and Scotties were second (third last year) with 82. Best in Show was the Wire, Ch. Crackwyn Cockspur. Like Elfinbrook Simon he is no stranger to top awards since he has been often a group, best in show and reserve best in show winner. Postal troubles in England have been delaying the arrival of magazines but thanks to Mr. Caspersz we have word of the winning Scotties in time for this issue of Dog News. Best of Breed and the dog c.c. went to Miss Sedorski's Cumnoch Clansman, a son of Ch. Kennelgarth Eros (Ch. Viewpark Vincent) and his dam is Ch. Cumnoch Sonnet. Gaywyn Viscountess won the bitch certificate. She is by Ch. Kennelgarth Viking ex Gaywyn Countess. Viking is a son of Eros which makes both certificate winners products of the same male line.

Gaywyn Viscountess has been winning at smaller shows as well as at Cruft's. She won her three classes and Best of Breed at the Sc. T. Breeders' and Exhibitors' sanction show in London where Miss Jane Miller was the judge. She thought her a top-class youngster, a stylish mover with well-ribbed solid body. Best Opposite to her was Kennelgarth Dennis.

Viscountess also won well at Hammer-smith open show under Fred Cross. There were 404 dogs at this show and ten champions entered and Viscountess was best puppy, best of breed and reserve best in show.

In contrast to last year there seem to be few promising youngsters showing up in the interval between the closing of the 1961 season and the opening of 1962. A year ago there were a half dozen or more which were winning consistently at the smaller shows and a number which had started well at ch. shows but had not yet finished. As this season starts we find a number of the best exported and few leftovers waiting for a chance to annex a third certificate. The field is wide open and it is hoped that the new litters coming up will have, not just one or two, but many outstanding individuals which will provide worthwhile competition.

Mr. Caspersz reports satisfactory progress on the publication of the Pedigree Supplement and feels that they should be meeting the planned publication date by Easter if not before. Once more the price will be about $3.50 which does not include postage and packing expense. The order blanks explain more fully and I have a supply for those who want them. The edition will not be a large one and to insure receiving a copy order early.

On his quest for his Championship, Silver Note was shown but five times finishing with one five and two four-point majors, including Best of Winners at Westminster in 1961.

Carnation considers Silver Note a truly wonderful individual, worthy to carry on the great tradition for color and quality in silver brindles, which produced such top winners as Ch. Deephaven Warspite and Ch. Carnation Night Watch.

Improving the Breed

A Brief Study

By Mrs. Dorissa Barnes,
5405 Cartwright Ave.
No. Hollywood, Calif.

THE study of genetics is a vital part of breed improvement but the average breeder of one or two litters a year rarely has either the time or the patience to go into exhaustive research to acquire a working knowledge of the subject. Consequently, this brief and over-simplified study may be of some assistance in your breeding program. We will try to help you to apply some basic principles without troubling you with too much theory.

We shall assume at the outset that you are thoroughly familiar with the breed standard and the ideal it represents. The absolute fundamental for breed improvement is complete honesty about both the assets and the faults of whatever Scotties you now possess. You cannot exaggerate any virtue nor excuse any fault in your own Scotties or you will never advance in succeeding generations. Remember that, as a breeder, you will frequently be asked for advice in the future from those who purchase your puppies. Although your ambition may be to breed no more than one better litter, the puppies (particularly bitch pups) sold from that litter may be brought back to you by their owners with a request for advice on how to breed them. You will be doing the breed a service if the knowledge you have acquired can be helpful to others in breeding better dogs.

For the purposes of this study we will invent an hypothetical bitch which, with great ingenuity, we will call Heather since there must be thousands of Heathers in Scottiedom around the world. Our Heather is as follows:

ASSETS	HEAD	FAULTS
Neat, small, well-placed ears. Deep muzzle. Perfect teeth.	Rather round and light eyes. Short skull.
Deep chest between strong forelegs. Broad rear.	Long back, flat ribs. Rear legs bowed.
Short, thick, carried well up.	Tendency to gay
Profuse.	Soft.
	DISPOSITION
	Fearless, friendly.

So we start with a bitch of considerable quality, a good disposition and some faults to be corrected. As the sire for her pups we will want, first of all, a dog which shares NO COMMON FAULT with her. We will want a short-backed, well-ribbed dog with a strong straight rear. We will want him to have a very dark almond-shaped eye and plenty of head length.

Let us now suppose we have found such a dog in Angus, so named for the same reason we named our hypothetical bitch Heather. He seems to excel in all points which Heather lacks. It would seem on the surface that splendid puppies would be produced by such a mating but that is not necessarily so. We must scratch beneath the surface to get the information we need for improvement.

Almost every breeder or potential breeder has read something about line and inbreeding. For the benefit of those to whom both terms are more than a little confusing, let's list the relationships which are generally accepted as being part and parcel of these programs.

Line-breeding:

Grandsire to granddaughter
Granddam to grandson
Half brother to half sister
Great-grandparent to descendant
Brother to brother's granddaughter

Inbreeding:

Mother to son
Father to daughter
Brother to sister
Brother to brother's daughter
Sister to sister's son

There are additional variations which can be classified within these categories but this will suffice. All unrelated matings are outcrosses and the chance of improving your stock with an outcross is a very long shot. An outcross from your own line-bred stock to another in- or line-bred strain may result in great improvement or even in an individual of outstanding excellence but if the breeder expects to retain the good qualities he already has it is wise to return to the original strain in the next generation.

Inbreeding should not be attempted by the novice for it intensifies both good and bad qualities. It is quite true that in other animals, cattle in particular, the greatest advances have been made with very inbred lines. These advancements were made, however, by people with years of experience in animal husbandry and the methods employed are more complicated than we can absorb in this short study. If you ever feel sure that inbreeding is what you

Thoughts On 1500 Champions

IN 1898, Tires became America's first Scottish Terrier champion and fifty-five years later, in 1953, Gold Finder's Commander was recorded as champion #1000. Now, in 1961, only eight years later, we have already reached another milestone when Crescent Hill Comet became champion #1500. The addition of 500 champions in only eight years seems a fantastic number in view of the fact that 60 to 70% of the shows staged in each point section of the country have an entry of fewer than ten Scottish Terriers. America's show system encourages the making of champions since all shows, large or small, can contribute their share of points, and class dogs do not compete against champions to obtain them. There are plenty of shows available and, granted one has enough money, persistence and the dogs needed for major points, it is possible for a dog of mediocre quality to become a champion if his owner wants it so. Fortunately for the breed they are in the minority but, even so, the annual roll call of some sixty or seventy champions is mainly a numerical record rather than a guarantee of quality since all champions are rated equally regardless of where or by what means the title was acquired.

Compared to America's 63 years of Scottish Terrier show history and her 1500-odd champions, England in 80 years has recorded only 448 champions. With 26 ch. shows per year, she averages 35 to 40 Scotties per show, while a number of the larger shows and the specialties may have as many as 50 to 100 individuals in competition. All shows considered, specialty and all-breed, America averages about eight Scots per show and this figure holds true for each point section. In three years not even a specialty has boasted an entry of 100 Scots, the largest of them hovering around the 50 mark. In all-breed events each section has its fair share of extremely low entries, ranging from zero to five, so that sections in themselves are no criterion of quality. As for shows with an entry of over 12, California leads the sections with 22% of her shows in that bracket. The East and North followed closely with 17%, West and South 15% and the Northwest, 10%. These figures cover only eleven months of 1961 but they seem to indicate that the sections level off fairly evenly in entries. There are many states in each section which seldom have an entry of more than one or two at each show staged in the year and these pull the average down badly for the section. However, it is quite probably true, as some British visitors to America have observed, that the best of American's Scottish Terriers can hold their own with the best in Britain and if it were possible to make an impartial comparison of our annual roll call of champions with theirs, it is anyone's guess as to how many might fall far short of the standard on either side. Still, it should be a matter for thought when we note that nearly every Scottish Terrier brought over from England quickly gains the title and figures consistently in group and best in show awards.

Well, to get back to 1500 champions and 63 years of history. What have we gained or lost along the way? Perhaps the first great loss (England's too) was the Dundee line, long the only one to rival that of Alistair. Ch. Dundee's descendants accounted for some top Scotties of an earlier day in both countries. Among the better known were England's Marksman of Docken and his sister, Albournie Annie Laurie (originally Melody of Docken), many Albournes, Rookerys and the Aber-tays, bred in England but more successful in this country. In America many of the earlier Walescotts, Fairwolds and Nose-gays were of this line as were some of the individually famous ones such as Ch. Talavera Toddler and the bitch Ch. Jeannie Deans. Jeannie came close to winning

Best in Show at the Garden. Her game-ness and personality won the crowd and did much to popularize Scottish Terriers in the early twenties. The last real strong-hold of the Dundees was the Ardmore kennel although there was a brief revival through Ch. Kinnie's Bruce in 1953. The artist, Marguerite Kirmse, preserved their type in many of her lovely Scottie etchings, her kennels housing descendants of Br. Ch. Bobbie Burcott through some of the Lau-riestons. They, of course, lacked the fur-nishings demanded today but they did pos-sess very harsh, close-fitting jackets which needed little trimming and their heads

A second loss we could ill afford was the only truly American group which sur-vived direct from Ch. Heather Necessity, that of Ch. Hillcote Laddie. Laddie was a handsome well-balanced dog and his fif-teen champion sons and daughters who gained their titles in a day when cham-pionships were not so easily obtainable, attested to his greatness as a sire. He was a "laster" as were his progeny, a virtue not always as highly regarded as it should be in these days of quick championship goals. He passed on his own great qualities of style, personality and intelligence but today there are few breeders fortunate enough to possess his bloodlines even on the distaff side. The line appears to have been lost because of outcross matings to totally unrelated bitches followed by a fail-ure to return to Laddie's line in subsequent generations.

While we cannot yet say that the numer-ous Ambition group has entirely disap-peared from the scene it has been dwind-ling so rapidly that only ten of the last 200 champions claim origin from this line. Br. and Am. Ch. Ortleby Ambassador was the top representative since it was his branch which lasted the longest and was the greatest source of champions. There are still a few male descendants which could revive the line but in 1961 no cham-pion from this source appeared. The death of Marie Stone, which marked the end of the Kinclavens, probably dealt the biggest blow to the Ambition line for the major part of her extensive breeding program was based on Heather Asset, a grandson of Ch. Heather Ambition. Largely through the Kinclavens, but with the support of many other kennels scattered throughout the country, Asset's branch came close to equalling Ambassador's. Their productive years covered about the same length of time but 1961 drew a blank on that one too so that the possibility that descendants of either dog will revive the line is rather remote.

Several years ago Mrs. Casperz expressed some concern at the ever-narrowing lines and the possibility that in the future the descendants of Ch. Heather Fashion Hint would be the sole survivors, over-riding all others. That possibility looms larger with each passing year. England still has a small nucleus of the Red Robin line on which to draw and America has the relatively large Barty group, but in both countries Fashion Hint dogs are far out in front as producers.

Every line has its good features and its bad, with none having a monopoly of either faults or virtues. Hence the loss of any influential line is unfortunate for we are bound to lose some feature in which it excelled, a feature perhaps badly needed by the breed as a whole. There is danger in putting all our eggs in one basket for faults are concentrated when only a few individuals belonging to a closely-related group are available for breeding. We need good strong outcross lines but this does not imply the helter-skelter breeding of which we see far too much. It does mean laying out an intelligent plan of reaching out for some part of the strength of another line while holding the best of one's own by returning to it in following generations.

Improving the Breed

want to do, remember this: never inbreed two animals that are not in themselves almost perfect.

With line-breeding the novice can make big advances in one or two generations. When looking seriously for improvement the parents and grandparents of the prospective mates must be weighed for their qualities for they will contribute as much as the parents of the proposed litter. In the simplest terms, linebreeding reduces your chances of failure because there are fewer characteristics to inherit from linebred parents.

Now let us return to Heather and Angus. A study of their pedigrees reveals that they share a common grandparent, one Ch. Jock. This is all to the good for we know that Ch. Jock was a good one and his influence will be doubled in the prospective litter since he is the paternal grandsire of both Angus and Heather. With the standard of the breed as a model, make several charts on which to note the qualities of as many ancestors as possible. Through inquiry, observation and by visiting kennels where the ancestors may live, find out as much as you can about the conformation and disposition of parents, grandparents and, if possible, the great-grandparents of Heather and Angus.

Ch. Jock. And while the evaluation is in process, never forget the all-important item of disposition.

And what do we do if Angus is not in any way related to Heather? We do exactly the same thing but we take into account the non-relationship and assume at the outset that the results may not be so good. There is, however, a bonus in some outcrosses. It happens occasionally that two lines "nick"; the results from the mating of dog and bitch surpass the fondest hopes of the serious line-breeder. If this happens in your breeding program, thank your lucky stars and repeat the breeding. There may be even better ones tucked away in the next litter, but don't count on it; it can happen and frequently does, but the odds are NOT with you.

Mrs. Kit McFall, Albuquerque, New Mexico, shown with her two Scotties—left, Morag McFall, by Ch. Matthews Desert Gold ex Matthews Black Diamond, and right, Gilkey's Johnny Here Now by Ch. Gilkey's Johnny Come Lately ex Gilkey's Prudence. These two will be shown by Lena Kardos, and will form a Brace hard to beat as Kit can hardly tell them apart.

The good and the bad of each ancestor having been weighed, we decide to breed Heather to Angus. Having given so much time and thought to our plans, can we expect a litter of champions? Not very likely, but if with an average litter of four pups, one is very good indeed, two are rather good, while only one seems to be no improvement over what we had before we have made haste as rapidly as nature will allow us to do. Improvement is a slow process, but if in this hypothetical litter we got one very good one, we can be reasonably sure that improvement occurred not by chance but because we used the principles of genetics to improve our stock scientifically.

NOTE: The information in this outline is gleaned from the writings of acknowledged authorities on the subject and is not merely personal opinion.

BREED OF THE MONTH

...SCOTTISH TERRIER

Proud as any kilted Scotsman, Scotties are the most independent of all the brave little Terriers whose origins are in Scotland. Compact, peppy and at times quite comical, this dog of the Highlands has enjoyed increasing popularity in America in recent years. Alert and intelligent, Scotties respond quite readily to training.

Feed Purina Dog Chow every day for solid good health the year 'round

Besides careful breeding, regular good feeding is a must for Scotties that conform to the breed's rigid standards. You can feed Purina Dog Chow every day—right from weaning on—because Purina Dog Chow delivers complete nutrition essential to the development and maintenance of solid bone, powerful muscle and rich, thick coats.

That's why Purina Dog Chow is the favorite of so many breeders, handlers and kennel owners. They know it's a scientifically balanced ration geared to the nutritional requirements of today's dogs—work, show or family pet. Easy to feed, it has a good meaty flavor dogs really go for—the exclusive Eager Eater® flavor only Purina Dog Chow has.

Feed your dogs a ration they will enjoy and thrive on—Purina Dog Chow. It's America's best selling dog food. On sale at Purina Dealers', pet supply and grocery stores.
