FROM THE EDITOR

As you can see by the cover, we have a NEW NAME and a new location. The latter, simply because we have moved out "into the country," and the new name to avoid any conflicting identification with the well known and respected column, TERRIER TALK, by Dr. Montgomery, which appears monthly in POPULAR DOGS. Anyway, it was just a name, and we don't want any of our readers to be concerned about any changes in any other respect, as we are pleased and proud of our monthly, and plan nothing but improvements as we receive the necessary support to carry out some of our plans.

This brings me to the "SPECIAL" offer, our advertising package shown on the inside cover of this issue. We sincerely hope that as many breeders and exhibitors as is possible will take advantage of it, as with each new advertising contract, we will be able to expand, both in space, size, and quality of product. We fully realize that many are "waiting" to see whether this new enterprise is "here to stay." And we can assure you that WE ARE . . . so let's join the many who have already shown their confidence in this new venture . . . you will be in the very best of company, as our advertisers represent some of the finest breeders and exhibitors in the country . . . WON'T YOU JOIN THEM! It's really an excellent offer, and you SHOULD take advantage of it. Write us today, as we will be happy to help you plan the advertising space so that it will be as handsome and informative as possible.

MORE ABOUT THE BROOD BITCH

By Dr. T. Allen Kirk, Jr.

In September, we discussed the importance of the brood bitch in establishing a successful breeding program. Among the important considerations in choosing this bitch is her pedigree. Before you take this beautiful girl home, go over her pedigree carefully. It will reveal much that you must know, though there is no single pattern that this is a sure-fire winner.

What do you look for on this pedigree? The number of champions in three generations, or in four? Not at all. Very few of the top Scottish Terrier brood bitches (those who have produced five or more champions) have pedigrees saturated with champions.

On the other hand, in the pedigrees of each of these bitches there is a great deal of evidence of the planning which went into their production, planning aimed at accomplishing exactly what appeared, a bitch capable of producing good pups.

There are three specific producers who may present their proud owners with good pups. First of these is the bitch who will produce pups resembling their sire entirely, with little or no characteristics of the bitch present in the pups, so that she will give good pups if bred to a good stud, mediocre pups if bred to a mediocre stud, and poor pups if bred to a poor stud. These bitches should always be bred to the stud most nearly resembling the ideal dog of the breed, and one who is pre-potent enough to reproduce himself.

Next is the bitch who produces high grade pups when she is bred to a stud carrying line breeding of the same lines which she possesses. This bitch is usually not line-bred herself, so that her good points are passed on only when they are strengthened by the same good points from the same line through the stud. She should be bred most carefully, to the best stud of the best line in her pedigree, the stud having the most of her good points but being careful not to double on her faults, lest they be enhanced also.

The third type of producer is the girl we would all like to discover, the girl who throws her own quality to her pups, when bred to practically any stud. She is the bitch classified as prepotent. This prepotency bears no relationship to the number of champions behind her, but to the combinations behind her. Breed her to a poor stud and you get good pups; breed her to a good stud of the same line and you get uniformity of excellent pups. The topmost producers fall into this category. Champion Blanart Barcarolle, topmost of them all, produced 10 champions from six different studs. Albourne Annie Laurie, second on the list, produced eight champions from four studs. In some of these instances, line-breeding was effected, in others the breeding was an outcross. In some instances, the stud was one of the best of his day, in others he was otherwise unheard of. Thus, major credit must go to the bitches themselves.

The pedigree will not tell you that the particular bitch is prepotent. Only trial of breeding will do that. In a given litter, one pup may be prepotent while another is not; that is a chance you take with an unproven bitch.

The pedigree will indicate where there is potential prepotency. Let's analyze the pedigree of one of the prepotent bitches.

With your indulgence, we will use Champion Fran-Jean's Bridie Mollie, dam of three champions line-bred to Champion Cantie Captivator (sire of nine champions,) and dam of two champions outcrossed to Champion Glenview Grand Duke (sire of one other champion), since more first hand knowledge of her, her parents, and her offspring is available.

Some students of breeding seem to feel that the family to which a bitch belongs is all important. This pedigree goes back in tail female to the "unimportant" family 50 which produced its first champion in Glendoune Enchantress. The sire's family line is also one of little note, number 46, whose first champions were the Glendoune, Gauntlet and Gipsy. Then, where did she gain her potential? We see that she is line bred in the third generation to Rosehall Enchanter in the first and fourth quarters.

We find, further, that he appears in the third quarter of her pedigree in the fourth generation. According to John A. Doyle, as quoted by Mrs. Caspersz, this is a significant combination. He recommended the common ancestor should be in either the first and fourth or the second and third quarters of the pedigree.

Rosehall Enchanter was not a champion himself, even though he carries the prefix of a show minded kennel. He passed through the normal campaign age during World War II. He was the sire of Champion Rosehall Edward (sire of six champions and foundation stone of the Wyrebury's), Champion Rosehall Toryglan Tam O'Shanter (sire of five champions), and Champion Glendoune Enchantress. Two of these three appear in Mollie's pedigree.

She also doubles back on Rosehall Brocade who is said to have been a great bitch. She is in the second and in the fourth quarters.

Extend her pedigree further and she traces to Champion Heather Necessity in tail male in all four quarters, through Champion Heather Fashion Hint in the first, third, and fourth, and through Champion Heather Ambition in the second. Her minor lines trace to Ambition again in the first, second and fourth quarters, with Champion Albourne Barty a single time in the third quarter. Thus, we see a heavy concentration of male lines back to Champion Heather Necessity, the dog who revolutionized the Scottish Terrier, through two of his most prepotent sons.

Thus, Mollie shows a heavy concentration in the right places of the combination which produced the prepotent Rosehall Enchanter, and a lesser concentration of the combination which Mr. McGill of Glendoune felt produced one of the best producing bitches of her day, Rosehall Brocade.

Ortley Joker, an otherwise unknown dog today, appears three times in Mollie's pedigree, contributing the combination which produced him to the first, third, and fourth quarters through his daughter, dam of Champion Rosehall Torryglen Tam o'Shanter, and his son Rosehall Norman who, exported to Australia, earned his championship and a reputation as a successful stud, though details of this performance are lacking.

These combinations of "blood" have provided Mollie with her prepotency. Her sons, Champions Balachan Agitator and Advocate are almost identical even to minor color patterns. Her sons, Champion Balachan Arch Duke and Balachan Assassinator, through by different sires, and her grandson, Champion Balachan Gregor, are almost indistinguishable. Her daughter, Champion Balachan Arch Duchess and her granddaughters, Champion Balachan Gambit and Balachan Gaiety, are extremely similar to Mollie in all regards but color. This, then, is the evidence of prepotency.

This is not the only pattern which may produce good progeny. Later, I will try to present other patterns which have spelled success to other breeders.

Time again for well-wishing with the advent of the new year, not the least of which goes to friends and supporters of TERRIER TYPE.

Over now is the never-ceasing ring of the telephone for "Christmas puppies," a classification we do not ordinarily subscribe to. Over too, are the holidays, undoubtedly the hardest time in a dog's life, except perhaps for Halloween. There is so much going on, so much to do, that some things just have to be overlooked, and it's usually the family dog. That new "Christmas puppy" we hope has overcome the initial shock of that eventful morning, with the often chaotic conditions that prevail. We try to convince Christmas customers of all these facts, and where possible, deliver an elaborately wrapped pedigree and registration, and a picture if possible for the Christmas gift-giving morning, delivering the puppy after the 1st of January, when the tumult and the shouting has died. Of course, this does not suit all customers, and in many cases, we can do no more than wish the puppies a safe and sure recovery from the holiday spirit.

The last months of 1962 saw several exciting events within our breed. Here in California, the Scottish Terrier Club held its Annual Fall Puppy Match at the Cambria Kennels in Santa Ana. Mr. Charles Marck of El Cajon, Calif., judged an entry of 22 puppies. Best Junior Puppy was CRESCENT HILL PORTIA (Ch. Crescent Hill Ramrod — Crescent Hill Circe) bred by Dorissa Barnes and owned by Mr. & Mrs. Al Lathrop. Best Opposite Junior was Medora Messenger's homebred, MEDRICK MASQUER (Ch. An innovation was a litter class, with trophy to the breeder, in which two litters participated. The nod went to Frances M. Moore and her litter sired by Marlorain Proud Piper ex Ch. There was a distinguished crowd at ringside, including Eastern visitors, Ben Burwell, now gaining distinction as an excellent photographer, and popular handler Wendell Sammet.

Show of the Month

TERRIERS at SAN MATEO

This month we spotlight the SAN MATEO KENNEL CLUB as our "SHOW OF THE MONTH," and are happy to begin our complete coverage with the following introductory comments by Mr. Anthony Stamm, who judged the entire Terrier assignment including the Terrier Group.

"Mrs. Stamm and I included the San Mateo Kennel Club show on our vacation to California. The physical layout of the show is a show-chairman's dream. The large rings, good footing for the dogs, and the excellent manner of decorating the rings with the trees and vines native

California made the entire Fiesta blending into a park.

The seasonal bouquets and arrangements provided by the members of the San Mateo Garden Clubs were the loveliest I have ever seen. The skillful touch of William Fox, Club Secretary, and the boundless energies of his fellow officers and club members made the assignment a real pleasure.

"The judges were introduced to club officials at a dinner party on the evening before the show, and given an idea of what would be provided for them on Sunday. This was a time to get acquainted and re-acquainted with our California friends.

"The show party given by Mrs. Robert Henderson on her spacious and palatial estate excelled any party I have attended.
