WINTER ISSUE — JANUARY 10, 1980

CH. DEMOCRATIC VICTORY

Ch. Democratic Victory (Tiger Two) was whelped May 28, 1978 and is a product of my second litter as a breeder. His sire is the famous Ch. Dunbar Democrat of Sandoone and his dam is Ch. Prairyhill's Promenader, obtained for me by Bergit Coady.

Tiger Two showed promise from the beginning. He won a four-point major under E. Loebe at the Silver State Kennel Club (Las Vegas, NV) and a three-point major under Dr. Gerard Penta at the Long Beach Kennel Club (Long Beach, CA) when he was eleven months old. At thirteen months Tiger Two won Sweepstakes (under John Sheehan) at the STCC Specialty. He finished soon after that. In his short time out as a special he has won three Group Firsts and a number of Group placements.

This year has been very exciting for "Tiger Two" and his owners -- he has won Specialties at Long Beach (under Mrs. Stephen Dowell), San Francisco (under Elizabeth Cooper) and Montgomery County (under Mrs. Kirk). Pictured on Bagpiper cover.

"Tiger Two" is very cobby and compact, has a beautiful head and a great coat. In the ring he displays elegant movement and is very stylish and showy. He has a marvelous disposition and the desired Scottie temperament.

Ch. Democratic Victory has been tested clear of VWD and is kenneled with Bergit Coady, 11779 Sheldon St., Sun Valley, CA 91352 (phone 213-767-3330).

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Another Montgomery County weekend has ended, bringing with it the close of our Club year, which was climaxed by a highly successful Specialty show that brought out a large entry for our class judge, Mrs. Evelyn Kirk, and sweepstakes judge, Mr. Jerry Rozsman. Thanks to both of them for a fine painstaking job.

The annual dinner meeting was successful with well over 125 in attendance. Much of the credit for this gratifying turnout should go to our Specialty Arrangement Chairman Lorayne Lapin and our Dinner Chairman Faith Harrop. Also a special thanks to our Trophy Chairman Kathi Brown and Advertising Chairman Muriel Lee, both who worked very hard and did a beautiful job. Many more people worked putting on this show and dinner, and the Board, the membership, and myself thank you all.

I feel we have many capable members who would like to work for and participate more actively in the Club. Please may we hear from you. Send your name to myself, Kathi Brown, Corresponding Secretary, or any member of the Board. All letters will be acknowledged. Also feel free to offer your ideas, suggestions and constructive criticism. This is your Club . . . we do not know how you feel, unless you tell us.

You have a good Board working for you, one that has worked well together, and will continue to do so. A Board that gives top priority to the best interests of the Club and to the betterment of the Breed.

Our next Board meeting will be held April 11, 1981 at Atlanta, GA. I hope we have your ideas, comments and offers of help to present at this time.

I personally will continue to do all I can for the Club, and know that by all working together, we can and will have another successful year.

Sincerely,

Cass Ridgley

RECORDING SECRETARY'S REPORT: Ballots for the election of three Officers were, on August 6, 1980, mailed to 638 members, together with biographical sketches of each candidate whose resume had been furnished and the material to return ballots cast to the Accounting Firm. The Accounting Firm charge $410.79 for its services to count the ballots and pay its incidental expenses. Printing, postage and other incidental costs brought the total cost of the election to $644.22.

A letter of appreciation from Brum and Barbara Dunham for the Board's assistance in the Rotating Specialty hosted by the S.T.C.C. in June, 1980 was read.

Letters of resignation and letters from applicants whose applications have not been voted on because they are incomplete were read.

COMMITTEE REPORTS:

MINI-WORKSHOPS: The Chairman, Miriam Stamm reported that two mini-workshops have been held since last June. One was given for the San Francisco Bay S.T.C., the other was given in the Denver area for the benefit of the two Clubs there. Both were well received.

A request has been received from the S.T.C. of Canada to hold a workshop in Calgary in August, 1981. Investigation will be made whether the request can be granted.

MONTGOMERY COUNTY, 1981: Special Events Chairman Lorayne Lapin and Dinner Chairman, Faith Harrop, suggested that the 1981 Headquarters of S.T.C.A. for the Montgomery County weekend be the West Chester Inn, on Route 202, West Chester, Pa. The Annual Dinner will be at the same location. Rates are $29 for singles; $37 for doubles, plus 6% tax. Dr. Kirk moved, Ronald Giese seconded that we contract for this location for the 1981 Headquarters and Annual Dinner. Carried unanimously. Robert Marshall moved, seconded, that Lorayne Lapin be appointed Special Events Chairman, and Faith Harrop, Dinner Chairman, for 1981. Carried unanimously.

OBEDIENCE AWARDS: The Obedience Committee, through its Chairman, Ruth Tryon, recommended that an additional award be given each year for dogs that have earned the CDX or UD titles and continue to compete in the Open B Class after acquiring their CDX title. Bart Lapin moved, seconded, that the recommendation of the Obedience Committee be accepted, the award to be given for dogs attaining a qualifying score of 190 or better four times during the year.

TROPHY COMMITTEE: It was announced that the Shieling Trophy has been retired. It will no longer be offered.

Kathi Brown, National Trophy Chairman, inquired whether an award which is won by its doner, can automatically be given to the exhibitor, kennel or dog placing second in competition for the award. It is the opinion of the members of the Board that it cannot. It must be awarded to the one placing first, who may then follow his own wishes as to its disposition.

Marjorie Cohen moved, seconded by Dr. Kirk, that a Committee be appointed to review and clarify the rules for awarding the Annual Trophies. Carried unanimously.

Bart Lapin moved, seconded by Ronald Giese, that the Committee be comprised of, Kathi Brown, Chairman, Marjorie Cohen and Barbara Lundell.

Miriam Stamm moved that Neatha Robinson be appointed Chairman of the Committee formed to tabulate and record the points for the award of the Annual Specials (Trophies), the other member of this Committee to be the National Trophy Chairman. Seconded by Jeannie Passmore; carried unanimously. The Recording Secretary will no longer have the responsibility for tabulating these points.

OLD BUSINESS:

Stalter cannot be used for any purpose other than to purchase and/or replace the Stalter Memorial Trophy.

BIOGRAPHIES OF NOMINEES FOR OFFICERS AND BOARD: Bart Lapin moved, seconded by Ron Giese that Robert Marshall, assisted by Miriam Stamm, review and revise the "Guidelines for the Nominating Committee, and draft forms for the use of the Nominating Committee. Carried unanimously.

The name and address of the Corresponding Secretary is to be shown.

NEW RULES RE POINT STATUS: Dr. Kirk clarified the new A.K.C. rules re point status for dogs going BOB. If a Class dog goes BOB, the number of Specials is added to the Breed points for its sex. In the case of a Class dog going BOS the number of Specials of the same sex as the dog or bitch going BOS is added to the dog's points.

Also, a dog that has been entered in one of the Classes, and who, before the date of that Show has finished, may be entered for BOB by notifying the Superintendent before judging of that Show begins. This means before judging for the day begins, not judging of the particular breed.

CRITIQUE OF MONTGOMERY COUNTY SPECIALTY (SWEEPSTAKES)

By Jerry Roszman

"My sincere thanks to the Officers and Board of the S.T.C.A. for inviting me to judge at this Specialty. It was an honor and a privilege I won't soon forget.

"Most especially I would like to thank the Club members and fellow Scottish Terrier fanciers who turned out with such a large and super entry for me. I was thrilled and excited by the trust and faith you showed in allowing me to pass on these fine young Scots.

"I felt the overall quality of the entry was very good. I found only one bad mouth in the lot. I am not a "head hunter", but would prefer a little more refinement in many, with a better set of ears. Many nice heads had been distorted by their groomers chunking in under the eyes, giving an "hourglass" look to the head. Dog after dog came at me with this same look, quite overwhelming to say the least. I must confess I was hard put to sort out the nice heads from this distortion.

"Eyes were generally dark, but with many round and not too well placed. Toplines were generally good and I found a lot of nice full rears with good angulation. I do feel this was the outstanding part of my day as I have felt rears and movement to be lacking in a lot of today's dogs. Only one or two were actually straight in stifle, so I think we're making good progress here.

"I found quite a few with smooth flow of neck over good shoulder layback, blending well into the topline. Fronts here were good. I did find many that need improvement in front, and tried to remember that these were young dogs, however, I do feel either the conformation is there or it isn't. They may muscle in some, but the bone structure is not going to change.

"My Division Placements were as near my "ideal" type as I could come with what was presented, and still take in the all important points of coat, conditioning, showmanship and the final "picture" I was seeking. Many fine dogs that I liked for type, just wouldn't put out for me, or fell away once I got my hands on them. Here again I had to go with what was presented at the time and on this day. Many of those not placed will do quite well in the future I'm sure.

"My 6 - 9 month Winner was a typey, hard coated, good boned dog that moved well coming and going and set himself out well early on. He did not show well later in the day, but he is just a baby.

"My 12 - 18 month Winner was not my type at all, too much leg, but he had it all together, moved well out and back, was sound and made a nice picture. My 12 - 18 month bitch didn't show at this time, and suffered as a result, she was very typey, more to what I was looking for, but she didn't want to cooperate.

"My 9 - 12 month Winner I loved!! What a nice bitch. Low set, super coat and in grand condition. Nice head and ears, she moved like she should, powerful drive, good reach and straight on track. Nothing could take her from my eyes on this day. so naturally, she had to be Best in Sweepstakes!! That one I could have taken home with me!

"I was very pleased to see my choices picked out in the Regular Classes time after time by Mrs. Kirk, and felt some of my good ones let down for her, and some showed better.

"Thank you all again. I thoroughly enjoyed myself playing with these pups, and if you had just half the fun I did, you had a super day."

Very Sincerely,
Jerry L Roszman

CRITIQUE OF MONTGOMERY COUNTY SPECIALTY (REGULAR CLASSES) By Evelyn Kirk

"It's very hard to write a critique when you find so little to criticize. I do have a few things to say, though, so bear with me.

"The day was gorgeous, absolutely perfect as I was concerned, and will be remembered for a long time and for a number of reasons. I was very happy: the entry, good friends, yellow roses, sunshine and The Dogs. You just can't find a better combination.

"The Dogs, Bless 'Em, are what it's all about; what brings us all together. They were great. Not a shy one in the lot, not a bad mouth, not a poor coat. Some were in poor coat, but the potential was there. I did see some poor movement, mostly in the rears. Some were straight in stifle, some just lacked muscle tone. And this leads to the first of two points I wish to make.

"There is such a thing as "conditioning". This does not apply solely to the coat. It includes correct weight, muscle tone, attitude, the over-all "bloom" on the animal. I think our newer people should be taught this as well as how to trim the coat. This was the main fault in this year's entry. So, you dear, dedicated dog people who teach at Mini-Symposia, etc. please stress this point. And, breeders who sell show-prospects, please make a big thing of proper exercise, etc. Good condition makes a big difference and it could make the difference between a win and a loss.

"Now, where did so many people get the idea that the hair on the top of the head should be long enough to put up in curlers? I never saw so many fuzzy faces outside of a whelping box. Expressions were ruined. And I saw them in Specials, too. The heads might have been super, but the secret was well-kept. Believe me, you can strip a skull and still have the hair lay flat. You can strip and still have short, shiny, hard hair on the skull but even then, it must be shaped to fit the dog.

"Enough fussing, let's talk about the winners. I was pleased with the winners classes. You know, sometimes when judging a large entry, you begin to doubt your own judgement in the classes. Then, when Winners is in the ring, it all pulls together and you say to yourself, "oh, yes, Yes, indeed." That's all you have time for, because you get all goose-pimpley and feel really thrilled as the parade begins.

"I sure did like my Winners dog. He caught my eye right from the beginning. he was good all over, moved especially well and should be extremely helpful in breeding programs.

"The Winners Bitch was superb. Her head and expression I would like to preserve for all time. She had that something that we can't define, the "look of eagles", if you will. I get excited just writing about it. She is a true show bitch and my congratulations go to her breeder and her owner. She needs maturity. Please take care of her and don't push her into a campaign before she is ready. She is a treasure.

"I found out that her brother was in Specials, and I liked him alot too. He, too, needs maturity, and will be better.

"I got all choked up over Best of Breed Class, that's what they call it now. It's still Specials to me. Those dogs are special! They were Good, some better than others, but all Good. The heads on some, Oh Wow! The bodies on some, Fantastic! But the final winner, had it All. He was handsome, masculine. He moved, strutted, posed. He was, simply, Best of Breed.

"Finally, let me say, "Thanks so much", to the S.T.C.A. for letting me judge the best Scottie show of the year; to the exhibitors for letting me see their dogs; and to the Dogs themselves for putting up with my poking and prodding, for behaving as Scotties should, and for teaching me all I know. After all, they made me what I am today."

Very Sincerely,
Evelyn Kirk

Games of Chance, Breeding and Hereditary Diseases

by

Robert A. Marshall

During the past decade at least three separate and apparently unrelated hereditary diseases have been identified in Scottish Terriers. They are muscular hypertonicity (Scottie Cramp), hereditary eye diseases and more recently Von Willebrand's disease (VWD). In varying degrees research efforts have provided us with information on the nature, character, severity and probable cause of all three. In addition some breeders have made a concentrated effort to screen their breeding stock and now use only those dogs that they believe are free of the genetic material that passes these diseases from one generation to another. A number of other breeds of pure-bred dogs are also afflicted and much of what is written here is applicable to them as well.

This article will attempt to unravel some of the mystery, focus the issues involved and suggest an approach that the STCA, other breed clubs and the AKC may wish to follow.

As with most problems. we know less about these diseases than we would wish and what we do know is of quite recent discovery. A text on animal genetics published in 1972 states "In spite of its undoubted popularity, very little work appears to have been accomplished with the formal genetics of the dog."¹ The author goes on to say that "considerable attention" has been paid to the inheritance of coat color, but little other work appears in the literature.

Dr. W. Jean Dodds has spent a good deal of time and effort investigating the factors surrounding the occurrence of Von Willebrand's disease. Her published research first appeared in 1968 and provides us with much of what we know about this and other inherited disorders in dogs.² Dr. Dodds is the Research Director, Laboratories for Veterinary Science, New York State Department of Health, Albany, New York and has instituted what may be the only generally accepted testing program for VWD that is available to individual breeders. Her work has been sponsored by various government grants and is mainly designed to establish animal models for human hemorrhagic disease research. Scottish Terriers breeders (and all those interested in pure-bred dogs, for that matter), have derived a side benefit from this work in so far as the avenue of research being pursued involves a canine testing program for VWD.

The research that has been undertaken in the investigation of canine muscular hypertonicity is much less definitive and very little has been published about it. Several attempts to gain interest in Scottie Cramp research and develop a program that would enjoy the endorsement of the STCA resulted in general apathy and little work, if any, is presently being pursued.

Hereditary eye diseases afflict many breeds of dogs and take on varying forms. Recently an attempt was made to start a foundation to pursue research and collect information about the nature and extent of this genetically transmitted problem. The data published was of questionable value and attempts to trace its source met with failure.³ The foundation has since faded into obscurity.

A large part of the problem of increasing our knowledge of inherited canine diseases is that there is virtually no constituency to support research on them. The work done by Dr. Dodds is in furtherance of other objectives than the classification of the character and treatment of canine disease, it is designed to improve human medicine. Any benefit that we derive from this effort is incidental to its primary purpose. There is much that is basic to developing cures or solutions to these problems that we do not now know, nor are we likely to find out unless we do something constructive about supporting investigative programs.

For example, we do not know the incidence of either Scottie Cramp or VWD in the breed with any degree of accuracy. Estimates run all the way from less than 1% of all Scotties affected to as high as 25%.⁴ And remember that these are at best only estimates and not very scientifically derived ones at that. Most certainly we have two very different problems if the incidence of the disease is less than 1% than if it is over 25%. In one case it is a problem that may well be left to the concern of individual breeders, in the other it is a panic situation that most likely requires the intervention of the STCA and may even draw on the resources of the AKC as well.

How can we determine the magnitude of the problem without testing every Scottish Terrier in the country (assuming of course, that the tests themselves are sufficiently definitive to give us accurate data)? One way is to take a representative sample of Scottish Terriers and test them. We can then extrapolate the results of this sample to the entire population of Scotties and determine the severity of the problem. Incidentally, we don't even have accurate estimates on how many Scotties there are in the United States, much less how many of them are afflicted with Scottie Cramp, VWD, inherited eye diseases or whatever.

We could get the basic information, that is construct a random sample, from the AKC's registration files. Through the process of computer selection a statistically significant sample could be developed.⁵ A questionnaire would be sent to those owners selected and information about their Scottie solicited. This data would give us the basis for calculating such things as life expectancy of the breed, principle causes of death, other mortality statistics and whether the owner would participate in a program of testing for VWD. If the answer to the last question is affirmative a single visit to the owner's veterinarian would be all that would be necessary for a blood specimen to be taken. This specimen would then be forwarded to Dr. Dodds and tested in the manner she has developed. This random sample may even improve the criteria (it is now in part arbitrary), that Dr. Dodds uses to classify the test results.

The questionnaire could also be used to determine if the subject dog has experienced eye problems, cramping or other abnormalities. It could give us more information about what kind of dogs we are breeding than all of the shows ever held. Most certainly we all breed to improve the breed and veterinary research is not going to tell us how to breed best-in-show winners, but it can tell us how to breed sounder and healthier animals. These objectives are not necessarily mutually exclusive and since most of the Scotties we breed become pets and companions this in itself is worthwhile.

A long term benefit of this program is that we will, for the first time, have a quantitative measure of the general soundness of our breed. We will be able to compare this with measures taken five, ten or twenty years from now and determine if we have made any progress in eliminating VWD, Scottie Cramp and other inherited diseases from our breed. How do we get started? Let's begin by devoting some of our time and money to defining the problem. Write to the STCA Board of Governors and tell them what kind of program you would support.

- ⁴ Dr. Dodds has tested blood specimens taken from about 1500 Scotties and has found 30% of them to be carriers or affecteds. However, her sample was biased, that is, the Scottish Terriers from which the specimens were taken are not representative of the Scottie population as a whole. Consequently we still have no statistically valid data on the pervasiveness of VWD in our breed.
- ⁵ Obviously the larger the sample the better. But if we are content with a 95% confidence limit and can accept an error of $\pm 3\%$, then a random sample of 400 completed questionnaires and 200 specimens is more than enough. To assure this level of response we will have to mail out about 1500 questionnaires. Cost to mail, tabulate and analyze the responses should not exceed \$2000, costs to collect the specimens, mail them to Dr. Dodds and run the tests, another \$4000.

SIGNS AND CAUSES OF THYROID PROBLEMS

By Phillip L. Farber, DVM

"Hypothyroidism or low thyroid hormone production, is a very common entity that we see continuously in everyday practice. The causes are many, varying from a normal aging process to the autoimmune destruction of thyroid tissue which we observe on rare occasions when an animal develops antibodies to his own thyroid gland. No matter what the cause, the effects are what we are most interested in dealing with for you.

"The effects of hypothyroidism which is most devastating to your breeding program is infertility in your breeding animals. This is, I realize, a very controversial subject among breeders to the extent that some indiscriminate use of thyroid hormone is being done without verification of an existing problem. The dog who is hypothyroid may or may not exhibit skin changes which we generally attribute to this condition. The indications of thyroid disease may be as little as a dull, lifeless coat, color change or a flakiness of the skin which we write off as dandruff or fatty acid deficiency. Lethargy, heat seeking and a tendency toward weight gain for no good apparent reason are other subtle changes which we may observe.

"How then, do you tell if you have a problem in your prize bitch or stud dog? The process is simple. Your veterinarian can pull a blood sample and send the serum to a reputable laboratory for a T3 and T4 evaluation. I must be quick to add that in my opinion, there is at present only one laboratory in the United States capable of giving us results we can consider valid and that's Dr. Ray Nachreiner's laboratory at Michigan State University. If you use a human lab in your home town, they won't be set up to give you valid canine values and you must be able to hang your hat on the results you get if it means the breeding future of a finished breeding animal in your kennel.

"T4, L-thyroxine is the active hormone produced by the thyroid gland. This T4 is then converted to T3 within the body. We find that the true hypothyroid dog is low in his level of T4 production, but we also find that some animals have lost the ability to convert the T4 to active T3 and therefore are hypothyroid with a normal productive thyroid gland. You can see the importance of having both values tested on your dogs. Both of these hormones are available in tablet form and therapy, if done correctly, can return a formerly non-productive breeding bitch into a normally cycling, normally productive, breeding animal again.

"A word of caution to those of you who might be presently using these hormones without prior knowledge of what is 'normal' for that animal. If you place a hormone in the body artificially which is normally produced by a gland in the body, the gland no longer has to produce its product. If this occurs over any great length of time, let's say 2 to 3 months, you could cause that gland to become atrophied or shrivel up from disuse, thus creating a hypothyroid condition in your animal. The test is a simple one so why not use it. Besides, infertility, if that is the reason you are using thyroid in the first place, can have other causes.

"My suggestion to any breeder who has a valuable bitch or stud dog entering their breeding program, is that they should run certain screening tests, one of which would definitely be a thyroid screen. If it comes back normal, fine, relax and breathe easy. If not, correct the problem with therapy. In any case, you have a baseline normal value to keep on file to use in comparing to future tests which you may elect to run if a breeding problem exists.

"If you have further questions on thyroid problems, you may write to me in care of Canine Chronicle, P.O. Box 115, Montpelier, IN 47359. Phillip L. Farber, DVM."

OBEDIENCE

By Ruth Tryon, National Chairman

The past year has been a very fine one for Scottish Terriers in the Obedience ring. Thirteen have completed their C.D. degrees and seven other have legs towards their C.D. Six Scotties completed their C.D.X. degrees and one has legs towards the completion of the degree. And we have one Scottie who finished her U.D. And that count, of course, doesn't include those who are still trying for their first leg! Every year sees more and more Scots in the ring and earning higher and higher scores. One fine step forward is the participation of Scotties in Open B and Utility Classes after they have completed their degrees. It is most encouraging to see eight Scotties continuing to compete in the advanced classes. They are all doing well with scores in the high 180s and 190s as the rule. Special congratulations to those dogs and their handlers.

Happily, as more and more Scotties are being shown in Obedience and more and more owners are encouraged to start training their Scot. This is a very encouraging sign for the breed. Scottish Terriers can do Obedience work very well - in the last analysis it depends on the handler. If you have never taken the plunge but have toyed with the idea, now is the time. Nothing can be gained by putting it off. If possible, search out an Obedience Club and talk to them about their class size, methods of training and how well their dogs are doing in competition. If a club is not available try and find a school. Here again, ask the same questions, look over their training site and talk to their instructors. Schools are often excellent but there is a profit motive so look carefully. If neither route is possible for you due to either unavailability or the training hours don't fit your schedule, all is not lost. You can do a great deal of the training by yourself. Arm yourself with a couple of good training books, the proper lead and collar for your dog and be prepared for a great adventure. I would highly recommend "Training You to Train Your Dog" by Blanche Saunders, "Koehler's Method of Dog Training" by William Koehler and "Expert Training for Dogs" by Winifred Strickland, about in that order.

First, before you ever put the collar and lead on your dog, read the books thoroughly from cover to cover. You will progress from one exercise to another but you should know what you are aiming at. Now you can start with your dog. If after a while you feel you are not working as a team, then without your dog, practice all by yourself. Walk at an even pace, make right turns, left turns, about turns, and change pace from normal to fast and to slow. Make sure your changes are not too abrupt. Remember, if you can't do these simple exercises smoothly your dog will be at a distinct disadvantage and he will never be able to cover up for you! Once you understand what you should be doing your training will progress much more satisfactorily.

Throughout all obedience training from the very first lesson right through the most advanced classes it is essential the dog's attention is on YOU. Without it you will be two separate individuals, rather than a team. Don't tolerate inattention - start out right.

One other most important fundamental is consistency. Whatever method you decide to use, stay with it until at least you are sure it won't work. You will never train a dog doing it one way one day and another way another day. It isn't the dog's fault he doesn't learn - it is yours!

Also in training on your own you do not have a guide to tell you if you are trying to go too rapidly. This is a common fault of all handlers. Remember - lay a good foundation and the rest will be easy. So do not try to push the dog but before you proceed to the next step make sure you have so thoroughly mastered the step you are on that you and the dog do it well, with confidence and nary an error time after time. Then only are you ready for the next step. And also remember, make it fun and a pleasurable period for the dog. You don't have to be racing all over the landscape for the dog to enjoy being with you. Let him know you are happy to be working with him. Your attention is a great joy in his life.

As for the use of food to motivate your dog during the training period, that is something you will have to work out. Some training programs recommend it, some don't. Each dog is different and you must adapt your training somewhat to your own dog.

We hope to see you in the ring soon! There is no better time than now to start that training. For the few minutes you will spend each day the dividends will be beyond measure. So, don't delay, and let us hear from you! Happy heeling!

WASHINGTON STATE STC

"CLAN CLARION"

Elaine Kirk, Editor - 15527 S E 24th, Bellevue, Washington 98007

No results received of the Washington State STC's August 2nd Socialty. Washington State remains in the headlines, as Mt. St. Helens keeps 'burping' up ash and steam. From reports received, all is well and the ash problem "... has proven manageable just as has snow, floods, weeds, cow manure and other stuff that man has to contend with."

Members of the WSSTC have begun to coordinate plans for the 1982 STCA Rotating Specialty.
