COVER STORY

There is something charming and innocent about a memory. Closing my eyes, I see the sunlight behind the Hotel Roanoke. Herb and I are unloading the car at our first dog show (STC(WVA) seventeen years ago. We were filled with anticipation. Everything was ahead of us. The fact is, that a life showing dogs exacts a hefty price; more than one could ever imagine when you are young and just starting out. For the true dog person the anticipation never lessens. With these memories still fresh I hope that the charm—the innocent delight—will always remain. Some new memories are now unfolding, and it's like springtime all over again. I want to introduce you to two lovely people, Pam and Jeff Allen. They have displayed their love and enjoyment of the Scotties, and are learning about the "Heart that is the Hand" at Aerie.

My own heart was open and tender to the touch when Pam and Jeff came along. They brought with them a Gift of Love that has become my Life.

For this—Pam and Jeff—I shall give you all my time—all my sun and rainy days—all the time it takes—to understand.

"We'll talk of poems, prayers, and promises, and things that we believe in
How sweet it is to love someone,
How right it is to care
How long it's been since yesterday,
What about tomorrow?
What about our dreams,
and all the memories we'll share
For tho' our life's been good to us, there's still so much to do.
And now we'll dance across the mountain on the Moon!"

John Denver

Sharing Aerie's glorious quest
Star Dust—Star Stuff—and Dreams—I love you people.

Passmore's Gringo Gold Discovers Montgomery County

Best in Show—photo variety—was what exploring Pennsylvania pumpkins won Passmore's Gringo Gold on his first trip to Montgomery County as a 4 month old puppy last fall. The 1987 national convention/collectors' show of wee scots chose this "Our Scottie Punkin" picture Best in Show in its photography contest. Gringo is co-owned by Jeannie Passmore and will be out this fall with Marip.

FLASH: New Canadian Champion! Gringo is WD at Scottish Terrier Club of Canada Roving Specialty in Calgary.

FOR YOUR INFORMATION1986 S.T.C.A. HANDBOOK

If anyone has a Handbook with pages that are loose, please RETURN it to the Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Jackie Seelbach who will forward a new one to you. Please make certain that YOUR RETURN ADDRESS appears on the package you send to her.

CHANGES OF ADDRESS

In the future please notify the Recording Secretary of your change of address. She is Mrs. Betty McArthur, 10 Focha Drive, Petaluma, CA 94952, and, so that the Roster can be kept up to date, she also needs your new phone number. The Recording Secretary keeps the official records of the S.T.C.A. If you will notify her promptly when there is a change in your address or other status it will expedite many operations of the Club.

A NEW PUBLICATION

Nancy Xander sends us information about a new book of Miss Betty Penn-Bull's which was recently published. Although it is an all breed book, Scottish Terriers are well covered in it. It may be ordered from Miss Penn-Bull at a cost of 9 pounds, English Sterling, and she can tell you about group rates from the publisher. The Kennelgarth Scottish Terrier Book is still available. It will be autographed if you request it, and costs 24 pounds plus 2 pounds for postage. We are also told that Miss Penn-Bull has an audio cassette called The Kennelgarth Scottish Terrier Cassette which can be ordered from her 2.95 in pounds. She can be contacted at Orchard Springs, Windsor Road, Water Oakley, Windsor, SL4 54J, Berks, England.

COVERAGE OF THE STCA ROTATING SPECIALTY

TEXAS DOGS' April, 1987 issue was headlined by Scotties: "Texas Hosts Its First National Scottish Terrier Specialty" and "Bergit Coady Seminar: A Full House." STCA member Carole Owen wrote the two articles.

Front page coverage details the entire Scottish Terrier National Rotating Specialty weekend of late March. Winners from the four days are given top billing, and all kennels that competed in Fort Worth are mentioned, according to Carole.

STCA members who want to obtain a copy of the issue may write to: Les and Mary Baker, Publisher, TEXAS DOGS, Tetrahedron Publishing, 2101 Tower Drive, Austin, TX 78703. The price of a single copy is $2.00.

SHIPPING YOUR DOGS BY AIR

If you must ship your dog to a city and non-stop service isn't available, you may wish to inquire about a service provided by Delta Airlines called "Dash". If Delta flies to the city of destination, this service is said to assure that your dog will be put on the best possible connecting flight and will eliminate the four hour lay-over usually required at the intermediate airport. Only three animals are permitted on each aircraft and each of them may not weight more than 50 pounds (Heaven forbid—not a Scottie). The cost is a flat rate of $95.00 and there are temperature and other restrictions which vary with each city. If you are interested call your local Delta freight office for full information.

ADVERTISING IN THE BAGPIPER

The notices page in the Winter Issue of The Bagpiper carried some excellent information about the photographs submitted for reproduction in The Bagpiper. It is suggested that everyone familiarize himself with the information and when you have a great win tell the photographer what you need for your advertising copy. If you find it necessary to submit a photo with your ad that may not reproduce perfectly please tell the Editor that you are aware of this and give instructions whether it is to be used in any event.

There is a schedule of charges for advertising printed elsewhere in The Bagpiper. When you send in an ad please review its cost and include the correct amount. If the correct amount is not sent with advertising the Editor will be obliged to call you—collect—an additional, needless expense to you.

The Bagpiper is published four (4) times a year. The usual deadlines are:

JANUARY 15	Winter	The Stud Dog Issue
APRIL 15	Spring	The Rotating Specialty
JULY 15	Summer
OCTOBER 30	Fall	The Montgomery County Issue

PLEASE NOTE the NEW DEADLINE for the Montgomery County Issue.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

It has been a great relief to me to receive letters from long-time breeders supporting the position I took in my last letter to you. Those of you who know me know that I generally try to avoid creating controversy where possible. These letters brought more than moral support, however. Several of the letters contained names of well-loved Eng., Am. and Can. Scottish Terriers whose achievements are worthy of repeating here.

The first to write me was Evelyn Sanders whose Sandbark Scotties were top winners throughout the 50's and 60's. Evelyn cited Alice Exworthy's article in the April 1961 issue of Dog News which stated that the first Scottish Terrier bitch to gain Eng., Am. and Can. championships was Ch. Walsing Waterlily in 1941. Again, according to the same article, the next bitch to do so was Evelyn's lovely import, Ch. Glendoune Gaytime. Marie, as she was called, gained her English title in 1953, her American title in 1957, and her Canadian title in 1960 at a rather advanced age.

Barbara Keenan wrote to tell of her quadruple-titled Eng., Am., Can. and Cuban Ch. Gillis Wrockwardine Sirius who was a multiple Best in Show winner in both the United States and Canada. When I read this I was very glad that my original letter stated only that I thought that Boy Blue might be the only Scottie with multiple Bests in both countries.

My most recent mail on this subject was from Catherine Jarvis who wrote a very touching reminiscence of her Eng., Am., Can. Ch. Jetscot Viceroy, who finished the last of his triple titles in 1978.

Thanks to all of you who took the time to write. As you know, one of my partners is very interested in Scottie history, and we would love to hear from anyone else who has any knowledge of other triple-titled dogs. There may be enough material for an article, or an addendum to the next breed history.

Miriam Stamm
July 30, 1987

Dear Editor:

Going over the February '87 issue of The Bagpiper, I came across a very flashy two page ad of a handsome looking dog called Scarista Rocky. I was extremely impressed with what the ad stated: The breed's only Triple Crowned Champion since Bardene Bingo, and proud sire of over 70 litters...

On the first subject: I hate to disappoint the obviously proud owners, but in 1981 I imported English, Italian Ch. Enchanter of Eilburn who also became an American Champion.

On the second subject: I suppose it could be a record! I have only been breeding and showing Scotties for 8 years so I am not an expert, and my stud dogs are not as famous and as extensively used as Rocky... (Thank God for that, as just the idea of helping my dog breed 70 bitches exhausts me!)

However, I would like to know the opinion of owners of other famous stud dogs. How many breeders in this Country and in Great Britain can claim that their top dogs have had over 70 litters at 4 years of age? I would really like for John and Barbara DeSaye, Helen Gaither, Barbara Kingsbury, Miriam Stamm, Fred and Christine Stephens, Bengt and Cynthia Wallgren—just to name a few—to come out with their thoughts and experience, so the records could be set straight and all the great dogs have their place in history.

I think, for us beginners, it would be extremely educational.

Many thanks,

Antonella Visconti di Modrone

A VERY SPECIAL SCOTTIE

Muriel Lee shares this endearing letter sent to her by her Aunt Florence when she was a little girl. For those of us fortunate enough to remember Fala, we see in our mind's eye a shaggy little Scottie, the constant companion of President Franklin D. Roosevelt. The news media gave him almost as much coverage as the President received and Fala is probably the only dog in history to accompany a President on some of his historic meetings with other world figures. Here is the letter.

January 9, 1944

DEAR MURIEL:

I WAS SO GLAD TO GET YOUR LETTER SAYING YOU HAD RECEIVED THE SLIPPERS FOR CHRISTMAS AND I AM GLAD TO HEAR THEY FIT ALL RIGHT. I AM WRITING THIS LETTER ON THE TYPEWRITER SO THAT MAY BE YOU WILL BE ABLE TO READ IT BY YOURSELF

I WANT TO TELL YOU ABOUT "FALLA" THE PRESIDENT'S BLACK SCOTTIE DOG — YOU HAVE PROBABLY SEEN HIS PICTURES AND READ ABOUT HIM — WELL, IN THE OFFICE WHERE WE WORK WE CAN LOOK OUT THE WINDOW AND SEE THE PRESIDENT'S BACK YARD AND WE HAVE SEEN "FALLA" OUT IN THE YARD RUNNING AROUND. HE HAS A NICE LITTLE GREEN BENCH THAT HE CAN SIT ON WHEN HE IS TIRED FROM RUNNING AROUND THE YARD. WE HAVE NOT SEEN THE PRESIDENT YET, THOUGH, BUT IF WE DO I SHALL WRITE YOU AND TELL YOU SO.

I SEE YOU GOT A VERY GOOD REPORT CARD IN SCHOOL. THAT IS FINE, MURIEL, AND YOUR MOMMY AND DADDY SHOULD BE VERY PROUD OF YOU.

BE A GOOD GIRL, MURIEL, AND WRITE ME SOON.

AUNTY FLORENCE

The man called in response to my Dog World ad. We hit it off immediately. His name was the same as my husband's grandmother's—a very uncommon surname. I'd done lots of genealogical research on that family. So had he. We knew right away we were related—150 or 200 years back, but we were kin indeed. Our pedigrees likely go back to a common ancestor who came to America out of Welsh debtor's prison. No Eng. Ch. before that name; no Crufts BOB beside it either.

"Is your new litter here?" Mr. X asked after we talked family. "I'm looking for a black Scottie male for my wife"—"not to show, just a companion," he added.

The wife was home all day, the setting idyllic—25 acres of oak woods, part of it fenced. "The dream home, if the black pup is not shown," I mused. "There'd be a mom home baking dog biscuits all day."

"This puppy was born Valentine's Day, but I really don't think he'll be available. I'm watching Valentino, hoping he should be shown," I explained. Nevertheless, I promised the gentleman a pedigree and photos of the little guy's mom and pop, just in case. Along with the pup's pedigree, I sent our own more modest one, plus a skeleton-in-the-closet story about how our branch of the family ended up "Gone to Texas."

What a nice surprise when Mr. X called again today—two months after his first call. There had been a reunion, and he'd lucked into pages and pages of new family history. Would I like copies?

We talked dog again, too. His wife was interested in showing, he added this time. She'd like to get together with a trainer and learn about showing. Unfortunately, they were not ideally located for getting involved. There weren't many show resources near them.

Mr. and Mrs. X still sounded good. After all, wasn't the best of homes more important than a show career? I knew what kind of home my own Scotties had had for the last 20 years. This pup would just be "going home" in a new situation.

I went through the standard adoption agency routine with Mr. X and reviewed the couple's basic credentials again. Yes, Cubby's puppy would be a house dog. Yes, there was a fenced area—and still 25 wonderful country acres.

I refreshed my memory. Would this be their first Scottie? "Yes," he replied.

"Do you have other dogs?" I queried.

There was a pause. "Well, my wife does have three or four poodles, very little ones that she breeds for a hobby," he answered.

"Odd," I thought as we said goodbye. "He didn't mention the poodles the first time I asked that question." My notes from his earlier call confirmed my memory, "just one German Shepherd that was about 50 years old."

Two minutes later my phone rang again. It was the same deep, confident, friendly voice of our many times removed cousin. This time there was remorse in it.

"I can't continue this lie. I can't keep up this deception" Mr. X apologized. "We do have Scotties: eight females and one very good wheaten male. My wife is a hobby breeder."

The couple had never sold to pet shops, Mr. X claimed. Their puppies "always went to family situations." They'd never sold a Scottie for under $400, he added, implying that must mean all their puppies went to the best of homes.

"We get good prices," Mr. X insisted, "usually $400-$450 for brindles, $500-$550 for blacks and $700-$800 for wheatens."

"I didn't mention all this earlier, because I knew you wouldn't want to sell me a dog," he added sheepishly.

The lesson here is very pointed: Nice people will lie to get good dogs. Every question on your breeder's checklist may be answered to your satisfaction. The home may sound great. Sadly, good answers may be bad lies. If this man—a pleasant, very educated professional—would lie to me, there's someone out there waiting to lie to you, too. The losers are our puppies.

I like to think that as a journalist there's enough of the Bob "Watergate" Woodward investigator in me that I would have unraveled this deception before our puppy flew off to a new home. Being unable to visit that home first, I would have checked with contemporaries in the couple's community. In this case, it would have been easy to uncover their operation. The man is a highly visible professional in a relatively small town.

Chances are I would not even have had to turn private eye. First mention of the neuter agreement which I would have requested for a male that would not be shown no doubt would have nixed the deal anyway. Wouldn't it? Or would Mr. X have signed the neuter agreement with no intention of following through?

How lucky for me that blood runs thick. How fortunate that my first puppy miller was a shirttail cousin. Advertisers, beware! Will your next puppy miller/hobby breeder/dog farmer be a long lost relative who turns remorseful over his lies? Don't count on it.

The "very nice wheaten" Mr. X now calls his stud came from an STCA member, one who has fine dogs with solid breed wins to the kennel's credit. Mr. X lives only 100 miles down the highway from this breeder. I'm hoping the breeder visited there and discovered our cousin is indeed providing the best of homes. I can't help but wonder though: Was it lies that put this dog in a hobby harem? Breeder were you deceived as I nearly was?

Parents, it's 10 p.m. Do you know where your puppies are?

OVER 60—AND PROUD OF IT

The Scottish Terrier Club of California is due congratulations on its 60th Anniversary. In June it held its 54th Annual Specialty Show and Mrs. Kay C. Kirsch, a long time member of the Club and a dedicated lady who, with her husband helped with the first Great Western Terrier Specialties Show, contributed this interesting account of their weekend.

The Scottish Terrier Club of California celebrated its 60th anniversary as a club and its 54th annual specialty show in conjunction with the 21st annual Great Western Specialties show. This specialty was dedicated to Bob Mankey who was a true Scottie lover and a special friend to those of us who knew him. The STCC recognized, saluted and bent over backwards to show appreciation to those supporters who have been members for 20 or more years. The show was held at beautiful Brookside Park in Pasadena on Saturday, June 20, 1987. The day was overcast, chilly and still beautiful.

It was exciting to arrive early—my first dog show in years. Several Scotties were on grooming tables being prepared—others were in portapens telling everybody and everything what they were thinking. The trophy table was exquisite. Renewing old friendships, reliving the past, catching up on interim news, and meeting people whose names and/or voices were familiar—but whose faces were not—were meaningful experiences for me.

Coffee and donuts and a special, roped off, seating section at ringside were pleasant surprises.

The Sweepstakes judge, Mrs. Betty McArthur, entered the ring and the show began. The youngsters were very representative of the breed and beautifully groomed. The best in each division should feel proud due to the keen competition. It was exciting for me to see those spunky little critters perform.

In the regular classes, Mr. Derek G. Rayne judged the most superior group of Scotties it has ever been my pleasure to see. On this day, many dogs and bitches were exceptional.

A complimentary lunch was served before the Best of Breed competition and we were given enough time to visit the Scottie Faire, pet a few Scots and talk to a few old friends.

When the Champions and Winners Dog and Winners Bitch entered the ring, I was awe-struck. The overall quality and conditioning were superb. Who was the most relaxed person around? It seemed to me that it was Derek Rayne. He consistently chose the same type of Scottie as his "winners". He was a confident judge, a master.

As an old-timer, what did I notice? Scottie grooming was excellent, women all wore skirts, men were impeccably dressed, and good sportmanship was the order of the day. The ring steward was capable, repeatedly asking if we needed to know the absentees, etc.

As an old-timer, what did I think? I believe that certain old-time breeders would have been extremely proud of the present Scottish Terrier Club of California—Bryce, Gordon, Barton, Dorissa, Medora, Martha, Lorraine, Florence, Helen, Harvey, Bunny, Brum, Barbara and Connie. Your Club is in "Good Hands."

The 60th Anniversary celebration was topped off by a delicious dinner at the Peppermill. Beautiful corsages, certificates, Scottie favors—cups, dinner bells, and vases, a Scottie Medallion, chocolate Scottie head studies, potted plants, a sack decorated with Scotties filled with Scottie treats—all of these were carefully thought out gifts. Yearly awards were presented to the owners of many outstanding Scots and our oldest member, Lena Kardos, cut the beautiful cake. The raffle prizes were outstanding and many were unique—the red Airbourne Crates, the two Scottie dolls, plus hundreds of other neat items.

This was a very special day for many people. It was a day that most of us will always remember—a happy day. Among the many special people to be thanked are Donn La Vigne, Martha Merrill, Jacki Herron, Mary Crain, Saskia Knight, Sueannette Maniscalco. You and many other surely outdid yourselves in organizing the most super day ever for people connected with the Scottish Terrier Club of California—60 years topped with excellence. Thank you and congratulations.

In the past 5 years there has been a considerable increase in the number of dogs recognized to have immune-mediated diseases of the blood. In true autoimmune disease, a rare entity, the immune system goes awry and reacts by forming antibodies against its own tissues or cells. The mechanism whereby this failure to recognize 'self' occurs is poorly understood, and so survival on a longterm basis is uncertain or unlikely. In the immune-mediated situation, the chances for recovery are much better if the underlying cause that 'triggers' the immune reaction can be identified and removed. Both types of immunological disease produce similar clinical signs in the affected animal because the resultant antibodies destroy the 'target' organs or cells. In common usage, the term autoimmune disease is loosely applied although this is technically incorrect as most cases are, in fact, immune-mediated.

Immune-mediated diseases commonly affect the red blood cells and platelets. These are called autoimmune hemolytic anemia or immune-mediated anemia—when the red cells are affected, and autoimmune thrombocytopenic purpura, idiopathic thrombocytopenic purpura, and immune-mediated thrombocytopenia when platelets are involved. Over two-thirds of cases with red cell involvement also show a parallel destruction of platelets. The remainder of cases affect either red cells or platelets. In some cases other tissues such as the kidney, muscles, bone joints, intestinal tract, brain or nervous system can be involved in destructive processes, and a specific name is given to each disorder. When several tissues are involved, the resulting disease is more serious.

CLINICAL SIGNS

If the immune-mediated disease is destroying red blood cells, the affected dog can become suddenly or gradually anemic and weak. The gums and eye membranes may show jaundice (icterus) and the urine may be dark brown or dark red colored. Diagnosis is confirmed by blood tests and especially the direct Coombs' test which is positive at some time during the course of the disease. It is important to perform this test before the dog is treated with corticosteroids as false negative results can occur once treatment has been initiated. If the immune-mediated disease is destroying blood platelets, the dog will usually show a bleeding tendency especially from the skin and mucosa. Typical signs are small pinpoint bruises or hemorrhages (petechiae) in the skin, gums and eye membranes, nosebleeds, large-patchy bruises in the skin (ecchymoses), and bleeding from the gastrointestinal tract (bloody stools) or into the urine (hematuria). Blood tests reveal a low platelet count (less than 150,000/mm) and the prognosis depends on the severity of the platelet reduction. Very low counts (less than 30,000/mm) are quite dangerous as internal bleeding can be fatal. Diagnosis is confirmed by a specialized test (the platelet factor 3 test or its equivalent) to detect the presence of antiplatelet antibody in the blood. Again, this test should be done before corticosteroid therapy is given. In about two-thirds of cases, both antired blood cells and antiplatelet antibodies are present so the affected dog is both anemic and thrombocytopenic.

SEX AND BREED DISPOSITION

Immunological disorders occur more often in females, whether spayed or intact, by a ratio of 2:1. The average age of onset is about 3-5 years, but cases are also being recognized in much younger animals and in pups. Stress situations including pregnancy, hormonal imbalance and other diseases, clearly precipitate episodes of disease in early or subclinical cases, and aggravate the pre-existing disease of affected individuals. A familial and/or genetic basis applies to many immunological diseases and there are certain breeds of dogs or families within breeds that have a much higher incidence of, or susceptibility to, such problems.

Note: the direct Coombs' test is a blood test for detecting the presence of antibodies against red blood cells.

Apparent breed predisposition exists for American Cocker Spaniels; Standard and Miniature Dachshunds; Standard, Miniature and Toy Poodles; Scottish Terriers; Irish Setters; Vizslas; German Shepherds; Shetland Sheepdogs, and Old English Sheepdogs. (see 'A Review of the Cases' as follows). Whether certain bloodlines within these more commonly affected breeds have a higher prevalence of immune disorders remains to be proven by careful statistical evaluation from pedigree analysis of affected individuals. Data for such studies are currently being collected for Old English Sheepdogs, Scotties and Vizslas.

INCREASED FREQUENCY

Since late 1979 reference laboratories like ours or those in veterinary schools have received a two-to-threefold increase in the number of cases of canine-immune-mediated diseases. Most of these affect the blood at one time or another during the course of the disease. Our laboratory has documented over 350 cases since 1980. Other commonly associated problems involve the thyroid gland (hypothyroidism or pituitary-thyroid axis deficiency), liver (hepatitis, hepatomegaly), spleen (splenomegaly), joints (rheumatoid arthritis) and kidney (glomerulonephritis) which produce clinical signs referable to the specific organ(s) involved. The number of referrals reflects a true increase in the frequency of these diseases and not merely an increased awareness amongst dog owners, breeders, and veterinarians who recognize and diagnose such disorders more readily.

PREDISPOSING FACTORS

A variety of causes or predisposing factors are known or thought to precipitate immune-mediated reactions (Table 1). Several of these, such as pregnancy, specific drug effects, and virus injections, have been well documented. Less well established causes included hormonal irregularities, genetic influences, stress conditions, and the presence of other underlying diseases. The possibility of triggering immune-mediated disease by frequent exposure to modified live virus vaccines recently has been shown. The current trend among virologists and immunologists is to be cautious about the overuse of live virus vaccines. As virus particles are minute forms of antigenic protein, recurrent exposure to viral antigen either in a naturally occurring infection or by vaccination can trigger an immune-mediated reaction in a susceptible animal. Thus, the recent increased prevalence of immune-mediated anemias and thrombocytopenias might be associated with the appearance of widespread exposure to and vaccination against canine parvovirus (CPV).

In the last few years, our laboratory and several other veterinary laboratories have been compiling careful histories of cases referred for immune-mediated blood diseases. In about 25% of the more than 350 case studies in our laboratory since 1980, there has been a definite association with recent exposure to CPV disease or a vaccination 1 day to 3 weeks previously with modified live virus (MLV) CPV. In only a few instances did the recent history include vaccination with the killed form of CPV vaccine. A disturbingly high percentage of these cases have been severe and resulted in permanent side effects, poor prognosis or death. Some cases of immune-mediated anemia have progressed to fatal aplastic anemia, whereby the bone marrow stops producing new red blood cells.

Recent studies of the human parvoviruses, discovered in the late 1970s, have shown two interesting and relevant findings. Children born with inherited red blood cell disorders are especially susceptible to human parvovirus (HPV). It infects their bone marrow and produces a transient (3 week) bone marrow failure with severe aplastic anemia and an immune-mediated defect. In adults, HPV usually has a short-lived effect with cold or flu-like symptoms and muscular aches. When incubated with human bone marrow in tissue culture, HPV inhibits normal marrow function. A second type of HPV has now been implicated as a cause of rheumatoid arthritis in man. Thus, these experiences with HPV parallel those of CPV in the dog.

There are additional points to consider, however, before anyone concludes from these observations that MLV CPV vaccines are unsafe for dogs. First, hundreds of thousands of dogs have been routinely and repeatedly vaccinated for CPV with the canine MLV and killed vaccines without obvious side effects. Thus, the relatively few cases of documented or apparent reactions may have involved only those with a susceptible genetic or physiologic makeup. Unfortunately, there is no way to predict or identify susceptible individuals. Avoiding the repeated use of MLV CPV vaccines for close relatives or known immune reactors is one way to reduce the risk of immune-mediated problems. Such dogs should, of course, be given regular, spaced immunizations with the killed canine origin vaccines to protect against CPV disease.

Second, the fact that the observed reactions have frequently included a recent history of MLV vaccination may be coincidental and not cause-and-effect related to many of the cases. In a few situations, however, an immediate severe fever and immune-mediated destruction of red blood cells and/or platelets has followed vaccination within 24-48 hours. These reactions clearly were vaccine-related, but we cannot conclude that MLV CPV vaccine, per se, was the cause, as a similar reaction might have occurred if the dog had received another type of vaccine.

Third, could the observed reactions result from the frequent revaccinations given to produce protective titers in relatively nonresponsive animals? If so, what is a 'safe' interval between vaccinations for such cases? Certainly the obvious advantages and possible risks involved should be carefully considered before a decision is made about the type and frequency of vaccines to be used.

In spite of our best plans and intentions, there are times Mac's training must be put on the back burner. Vacations, house guests, illnesses, raising a litter of puppies are among the good reasons Mac's training is delayed, deferred to another day or even week. There are lots of excuses why we can't train Mac on a certain day but not good reasons so let's not fall into the trap of excusing ourselves for failing to give Mac the attention he deserves. Those are the days when, if we take ourselves and Mac in hand and do work together, we find when we go back to our routine and schedule, we are relaxed and ready for the chores ahead. There is nothing like a change in pace such as working with Mac to help with everyday stress and tension.

But now we are considering what happens after a lay-off from training of a couple of weeks, or even more. The first lesson finds a great mixture of success and failure. We are usually delighted he remembers some things, but completely puzzled why other exercises are failure. His work in general probably will not be as sharp as it was prior to the lay-off. This is understandable, but it is those exercises he was learning, or you thought he knew, that seem to have faded from his mind. As always in such cases, go back to the beginning of teaching this exercise. Teach him as you did before, step by step, and you will find his progression rapid—to a point. And that is the point you must spend some time on. Don't push him because you thought he once knew the entire exercise, but work on that cog in the wheel that needs attention. When you are sure he understands it, then go on. In no time you will probably find Mac not only has the entire exercise in his mind but he is doing it much better than before. What was for a while a problem has now become an advantage. You have found out what exercise he could well fail in the ring without your understanding of his problem. The stress, excitement and distractions of ring work would have shown up that "cog" you two have now worked on and no longer presents a problem.

After a vacation from working with you Mac will be delighted to be back in training. Your attention is one of the most important things in his life. Don't blunt that enthusiasm with demands and hard corrections—that he be sharper in his straight sits, fronts, etc. Instead, gently let him know what great fun it is to be back working with him. Scotties know when you praise sincerely and when it is simply empty words. Make sure your voice and even your facial expressions convey your pleasure in his training. His work will improve quickly and he will be better than before the enforced "vacation".

With their natural curiosity about everything going on in the world in their particular domain, Scotties' attention to the handler is not one of their strong points. It is something most Scottie handlers really have to work on. Diane Bauman's book Beyond Basic Obedience has an excellent chapter on "The On and Off Switch of Dog Attention" followed by a chapter on "Teaching the Dog to Heel". It is well worth reading and heeding. Even though you and Mac have been heeling together for quite some time these two chapters should provide much information and assistance in improving your heeling.

Beyond Basic Obedience is a fine book and well worth purchasing. It takes the rote out of training and substitutes thinking and understanding on the part of you and Mac. You will never again correct automatically without first considering if and/or where you have failed in teaching and whether Mac does not understand or is just not paying attention. All the while you and Mac are developing a rapport that brings you two closer together in understanding and affection which means each future exercise will not become a battle of wills but a joint venture in understanding and learning.

Patience is a major ingredient of any training, for example, Scotties are not natural retrievers compared to most sporting dogs. Therefore, when teaching the retrieve with the dumbbell, don't expect Mac to learn as quickly as a Golden Retriever. That does not mean that Mac cannot or will not learn to retrieve, it simply means you are going to take longer to get the message across to him. However, once he understands it, he will enjoy retrieving as much as any other dog.

While not according to the books, one help on the retrieving, once Mac will accept the dumbbell, is to bend down in front of him, put the dumbbell on the floor and when he picks it up as you say "Take it" (and he will), move backwards calling him and before he knows it he is not only carrying it to you but will, as you turn and run, catch up and run along side of you and go over the jumps with the dumbbell in his mouth, all the while you are praising and encouraging him. It becomes a fun thing you two do together and the dumbbell is no longer a stumbling block. The ice is broken. From then on you can put the dumbbell a few feet in front of you, have him take it, and run backwards for him to bring it to you, all with praise and encouragement. Once you are sure Mac thoroughly understands retrieving, have him retrieve many different things, key cases, wallets, spoons, you name it. When he brings back whatever you tell him to, then you know he does understand and enjoy retrieving. Since that activity is the basis for many obedience exercises, make sure Mac is thoroughly competent in that field.

As you train Mac think not just about the exercise and the components that make it up but also Mac's natural characteristics and how they will affect his learning and show how they can be used to teach him. His independence can mean it may take longer to teach him but it also means that, once he is sure of himself, he will not be easily stressed or confused in the ring. This independence can give him great confidence. A Scottie's attention to everything going on as well as what you are asking of him can be frustrating at times. However, as soon as you know he understands the exercise, work with distractions—and each time his attention is diverted to a distraction quickly correct him. Don't wait until he has thoroughly observed the distraction and then decides he will do what you have told him to do. Immediately use a sharp verbal correction and that is usually enough to bring his mind back to what he should be doing. Gradually, he will realize when you tell him to do something, that is it, regardless of what else is going on. The day the neighbor's cat comes into view and he still does what he is supposed to do is truly a red letter day.

For a real treat and different vacation, get Mac ready for the ring and not only go for an AKC title, but for a Canadian title also. One great weekend of shows is the London Canine Association three shows and Obedience Trials in London, Ontario October 16, 17, and 18 with the October 16th show celebrating the Association's 100th anniversary show. Many special events are planned. On Sunday, the 18th, the Canadian Scottish Terrier Club is having a booster (supported entry) not only in conformation, but in Obedience also—A FIRST! It is a special weekend for all Scottie Obedience people as well as conformation. Write Alex and Elizabeth McKellar, 15 Oregon Road, London, Ontario, N5Z 4B8 for information. An AKC registered dog can be entered in Canadian Kennel Club shows by listing it for a small fee, paid with the show entry fee, and then later registered with CKC, 2150 Bloor Street West, Toronto, Ontario M6S 3V7, Canada (416/763-4391). You may also write to the CKC for a copy of their Rules and Standards for Obedience Trials. There are a very few differences in American and Canadian Obedience and the Canadian shows are great fun and the sportsmanship is super. Try it and you will like it.

THE PILL

With remedy in fingertips
I try to pry his puckered lips, to open mouth and thus drop in one tablet of the medicine.

Not fun!

"Persistence" is my middle name—
I vowed that 2 could play this game, but now, what middle name is his?
"Old Stubborn" must be what it is.

That's it!

Through all my strength his jaws were sprung
and carefully upon his tongue
I placed the pill, then sealed his lip.
He swallowed; I released my grip.

Well done!

But when at last I thought I'd won
I found in fact I'd just begun, outwitted by his mouthing skill,
as grinning, he lipped out the pill.

Oh spit!

Dedicated to all those pet owners that have lost a loved one.

About twelve years ago there appeared on the scene at our house a little black bundle with shoe button black eyes, two sharp pointed ears, and a tail that stood straight up in the air like a C.B. aerial. This bundle of fur weighed 7 pounds and was 9 weeks old. I guess about a couple of hundred years ago some dour Scot up in the Highlands of Scotland took a look at this sassy combination and called it a Scottish Terrier. We decided to call this fluff ball Pipe Major MacGillis or Gilly for short.

Gilly went through the usual wet on the floor, wake me up in the middle of the night to go out, pain in the neck puppyhood. He managed to keep his happy home because he could look so cute and helpless. After all, what kind of cruel person could toss this helpless, Baracuda in disguise out on a cold night?

Well, Gilly survived his obnoxious puppy stage and graduated into adolescence. He no longer cried or howled with loneliness in the middle of the night. Now he had a new angle. He decided that although he only weighed 18 pounds, he really was 150 pounds on the inside. His new pastime was making life very uncomfortable for our 120 pound German Shepherd, Brute. This was accomplished by waiting until someone about six times your size was enjoying a nice comfortable snooze. Now was the time to run into the room, jump on Brute, bite him on the ear, all accompanied with a blood curdling bark and growl. Next we take off like the brat we are and hide under a low couch where that highly agitated monster can't get at us. If we stay there long enough, the Big Guy returns to his usually easy going self and we have dinner together out of the same bowl. With a lot of tail wagging and wet kisses we convince poor, big, trusting Brute we will never treat him in such a dastardly manner again. Well . . . at least not for a day or so. Brute always seemed to fall for the Cock and Bull story.

Our Scottish monster finally got through his adolescence period. Time passed; he and Brute progressed into adulthood. Gilly still had all the courage of a lion and would never admit that he wasn't a 200 pound dog stuffed into a 20 pound frame by some mistake of nature. Much to Brute's joy Gilly gave up his teenage craziness and they became a couple of emotionally stable gentlemen. On Brute's part this was true, but Gilly never seemed to quite master this control all the way. Sometimes two or three months would go by before this hellish streak would burst forth like an exploding kernel of popcorn. Maybe it was the deep dim memory from his Scottish ancestors of the wild scurl of Highland Bag Pipes on a misty Highland morning. We never did find out and Gilly never told us, but we all knew that sooner or later it was bound to come out. Brute finally decided that if you're going to stay friends, you have to live with the fact that the other guy is a little crazy.

Time rushed by for our family and this mismatched Dynamic Duo progressed into and beyond middle age. The day came when God called Brute to Dog Heaven. We all took it very hard, especially Gilly. I had an advantage over Gilly. I still had him. I missed Brute very much, but at least my heart was half full. Finally the day arrived that all pet owners hide in the back of their mind and hope against hope will never arrive. The twenty pound ex-terror developed a brain tumor and he left us to join Brute. For a couple of years I just turned out the light in that special room in my heart. Every time I thought of my two guys I got a lump in my throat and my eyes got watery. They tell me that atmospheric conditions can cause this teary effect. Don't you believe it! Grown men can cry, too!

Finally after many turn-downs I accepted a beautiful female German Shepherd from my daughter who raises them at Sunnydae Kennels in Wauconda, Illinois. Roxie went through puppyhood and into ladylike adulthood. I learned to love her dearly. But you know, in the quiet of the night, my mind would look into my heart and that other room was empty and dark. I still missed Gilly. After many months of looking at old photo albums and wistful memories, I decided to look for another Scottish Terrier. A wonderful woman, Duchess Visconti di Modrone of Quercus Kennels in Gay, Georgia, breeds these pocket size imps, and I was fortunate enough to find Jamie. WHAT, YOU SAY? You didn't call the new guy Gilly II??? I fully intended to do this until the Duchess pointed out that it is not fair to the New Kid on the Block. She said that the new guy deserved a shot on his own and should not be made to follow Gilly's shadow. The Duchess was so kind and so proud of the dogs she breeds that I agreed to the name they had picked. In all honesty I must say I did this a little reluctantly.

On the first night as I lay in the dark with this new little black bundle in a kennel cage beside my bed, my mind started turning toward memories of Gilly. I thought about what a great dog he was! How pretty he was! How smart he was! How much he loved me! Suddenly I realized, HE WAS A GREAT DOG! I also suddenly realized that every time I called this beautiful new puppy, "Gilly", I would automatically be comparing him to Gilly. It flashed through my mind that when a star athlete passes on or retires, they honor his memory by retiring his jersey and number. They just wouldn't give it to the next guy that joined the team. With this thought in mind I gathered up all the loving memories of Gilly in my head and took them down to that empty room in my heart. I placed them one by one in the room that was Gilly's. I sealed that room forever with love. I got out of bed and opened the pen and took this tiny, face licking, new bundle of love in my arms. We looked each other in the eye, and after a dozen or so wet puppy kisses on my nose we really fell in love. Lo and behold! Another room in my heart opened that I didn't even know existed. It lit up bright as a new day and Jamie moved in that night. I know I'll always remember Gilly, but the memories will be happy, not full of grief. The new guy with the new name is not only giving me new memories to store away, but is easing the pain of losing his predecessor with amazing ease; and in his own way, not walking in the other guy's shadow.

Well, end of story. Come on Jamie, let's go for a walk with Roxie. I remember some choice spots I know about. Gilly and Brute, I know, would want you to take them over for them.

The STCGA is planning to touch on ALL phases of dog activities (including fun!) during the coming year. Our May meeting was devoted to tracking with members bringing their Scotties and learning the rudiments of Tracking. The June-July meeting was a Black and White Match with a different twist—only parts of the dog were judged, such as best ears, tail, etc. Also included was a Parade of Veterans. The West Highland White Terrier Club joined us for the fun.

STCGBA members met on May 31, 1987, at the home of James and Carol Kintz. Here we were greeted and serenaded with a chorus from the cicadas (if you did not have the 17-year cicadas in your part of the country, you really have not missed knowing the sounds they produce!). The meeting was well attended and enjoyed—indoors! Club member Bob Moore demonstrated the grooming of a pet Scottie. The little fellow really showed how great he looked after the session. Even though they are not in the show ring, our pets like to show their breeding. Another club member, Christine Cook, will be judging the Sweepstakes at Montgomery.

Plans are underway for a Fun Match in late August.

The Great Western Terrier Show, STCC Specialty, was in celebration of the 60th Anniversary of the founding of the STCC, and a grand old celebration it was! A large number of spectators surrounded the Scottish Terrier ring, which was adorned with yellow and lavender flowers. The trophy table was laden with gleaming silver trophies, and a special treat for the Sweepstakes puppies—hand-done counted cross-stitch topped jars with silver dollars inside! Even the weather cooperated and couldn't have been better if we had special ordered it!

The celebration continued into the evening as 85 people joined together for a lovely dinner at the Peppermill Restaurant in Pasadena. Lena Kardos, our oldest living member, was honored, as were all of the 15, 20, and 25+ year members. 20 members received a gold-tone STCC pendant with a diamond set just above the Scottie, a certificate, and a chocolate rose. Table favors were porcelain mugs, candle holders, and bell, all with a Scottie motif. Our annual Raffle had some wonderful prizes—a set of Airbourne Stacking

Anstamm Fats Domino

(Ch. Anstamm Apache x Ch. Anstamm Masquerade)

Fats is shown above winning his second major during his first weekend as a show dog. We are embarrassed to say that Fats had no training prior to his debut and we named him the day we sent the entries in. He rewarded our attention and diligence by going WD at Skokie and BW at Chain O'Lakes. FATS . . . Maybe not one of our great names—

But definitely one of our finest dogs.

Crates, a microwave oven, a picnic basket topped with Scottie material, as well as a host of other things donated by club members. Our Special Dinner Raffle was two lovely handmade dolls dressed in circa 1927 costumes in honor of our 60th Anniversary, and made by Mary and Sheila Lewis.

At the Specialty Show, Sweepstakes Judge Betty McArthur chose Reanda Master Charge, owned by Bergit and Clay Coady as BEST IN SWEEPSTAKES. Judge Derek Rayne made the following placements in the Regular Classes:

WINNERS DOG - Baggpiper's Top Gun, bred and owned by Barbara L. Gentry

WINNERS BITCH - Anstamm Maid in America, owned by Mike and Polly O'Neal

BEST OF BREED - CH. Simonsez Charlie the Charmer, owned by Louise Simon and Frances Moore

Congratulations to all winners and thanks to all who participated!

GREATER DALLAS STC "The Scotch Bark"

Connie Smith & Jo Ann Meyer, Editors 9103 Lanshire, Dallas, TX 75238

The GDSTC Fun Match, held on June 6th at Caelum Moor Park, was a huge success. An estimated crowd of 75-100 people were on hand to watch 15 Scotties in the ring. Our Judge, Jim Hunt, arrived in a tartan sportcoat to add a real touch of class to the match. BEST PUPPY went to Whiskybae Lord Duncan Dhu, owned by Donna and Ken Black. BEST ADULT went to Stoncroft Victory Design, owned by Jane and Bob Phelan. They received lovely rosettes and a set of silver coasters. We are proud that many of our members were on hand to answer questions about the breed. Carla LaCoe and Donna Winslow brought puppies, who promptly stole the show! We enjoyed a super potluck lunch and a noisy meeting. Word from the Caelum Moor Foundation is that they considered the day an enormous success and invite us back again next year.

The Ways and Means Committee is hard at work on some neat items for the Dallas Highland Games, September, 1987, and for the Specialty in March, 1988. The 1987 Christmas Cards are in the works, with drawings by Moira Cummings. We hope to have fliers ready by the first of August.

"Like Father-Like Son" is true with this young male. Breeder-owner handled, "Grizz" finished with all majors at the age of 14 months, from the Puppy and Bred By Exhibitor classes—with a quick three BOB's, and a Group II, all over Specials. He has also accumulated 6 Canadian points, including a Group I. With small ears right on top of his head, short level back, dark eye, nice hard coat, perfect bite, lots of bone, plus the true terrier temperament, who could ask for anything more?

Also, Reserve Winner's Dog at Great Western, and Winner's Dog and Best of Winners at Beverly Hills, expertly handled by Raymond Bay. If that's not enough, he's already a proven sire!!

Available for stud service to approved bitches.

STC of GREATER HOUSTON "The Skirl"
James Justice, Editor 12010 Downe Ct., Houston TX 77089

The STC of Greater Houston held its annual Specialty on August 6, 1987, as part of the Houston Combined Specialties. The club specialty banquet was held at the Cellar Door on Friday evening, August 7th. Judges for the Specialty were Mrs. Shirley Justus, Sweepstakes, and Mr. Bill Justus, Regular Classes. Mrs. Hazel Arnold judged Junior Showmanship. The Houston Combined Specialties are held in the Astrohall and are followed by the Baytown, San Jacinto, and Houston Kennel Club shows.

We are also working on having Bergit Coady come to Houston again in January for another grooming seminar. New officers for the STCGH are:

President: John Blake
Vice President: Richard Hickman
Treasurer: Jan Merritt
Corr. Sec'y: Claudia Leffler
Rec. Sec'y: Susan Justice
Board of Directors: Jim Justice, Leonor Gurrola, Karen Duckett,

STC of GREATER LOUISVILLE "Scot's Rap"
Donna Cambron, Editor 1312 Sportsman Drive, Jeffersonville, IN 47130

The STC of Greater Louisville regrets to announce that Sarah Dye, our editor of Scot's Rap, is leaving Louisville due to a job relocation. The Club greatly appreciates her expertise in writing and producing the newsletter, and wish her success in her new location.

Under the capable leadership of Show Chairman Bob McDonald, the STCGL second Annual Specialty was held on August 29, 1987, at the Holiday City Convention Center, located on Fern Valley Road at I-65. Mike Cook from Baltimore, MD, will judge Sweepstakes, and James Reynolds, from Ontario, Canada, did Regular Classes. Hope you were there!

In July, members enjoyed a cook-out at the home of the Bignons. Club President Maxine Stickler presented some goals, responsibilities, and challenges for a continued successful 1987-88. Committee Chairpersons were announced and will be meeting during August and September to develop goals and a plan of action. Some excellent ideas are "in the hopper" and we look forward to a great year!

GREATER MIAMI STC "The Scotch Piper"
Marjorie M. Cohen, Editor 1429 SE 6th Street, Deerfield Beach, FL 33441

Our club's 29th Annual Specialty Show will be held on December 4, 1987, at the Dade County Youth Fair Grounds, Miami Florida. Mrs. Muriel Lee will judge Regular and Non-regular Classes, and Mr. John Sheehan will judge Sweepstakes. New headquarters have been chosen which are closer to the Show Site, and, as usual, an After-show Dinner and other activities are planned for the weekend.

This is a three-show weekend with Fort Lauderdale Dog Club and Miami Dog Club shows scheduled for the same show site on Saturday and Sunday, December 5th and 6th.

Our annual dinner held in April was a huge success and attended by over 50 members. The new Board was elected and is as follows:

President: Barbara DeSaye
1st Vice President: Frank Morrow
2nd Vice President: Cynthia Wallgren
Corr. Sec'y: Sue Cerka
Rec. Sec'y: Joanne Kinnelley
Treasurer: Sue Martin
Board Members: Paul DeBene, Bill Martin, Dick Martin, Tim Warren

We held a Sanctioned B-Match in June and had 33 entries for Judge Bernice Sheehan. Winners were:

BEST IN MATCH PUPPY - Wychwyre Dixieland Jazz, owned by Bill and Sue Martin
BEST IN MATCH ADULT - Sandgreg's Heavens to Betsy, owned by Jim and Mary Ruddy
BEST IN MATCH ADVANCE - Greenbriar's Thane MacDuff, owned by Jan Gibney and Sandy Barth

After the membership meeting, we all enjoyed a scrumptious feast, and Mother Nature was kind to us again—the week before the temperature was in the 90's and the day after we had 5 inches of rain!

The Board is hard at work on the Specialty in September. Mr. William Harvey will judge Regular Classes and Mark George will judge Sweepstakes. We will also hold another VWD Clinic in September.

STC of NEW ENGLAND "Scottie Tails"
Jackie Brightman, Editor 77 Middle Road, Achesnet, MA 02743

Our Annual Specialty was held on Friday, May 29, 1987, in Shrewsbury, MA. Sweepstakes were judged by Ann Wooldridge, who selected as BEST IN SWEEPSTAKES Whiskybae Yanky Trigger Man, owned by Susan and Gary Carr, and BEST OF OPPOSITE SEX IN SWEEPSTAKES, Starbarrack Short And Sassy, owned by Liz Heywood. Regular Classes were judged by Mr. Morley Thornton of Canada, who made the following selections:

WINNERS DOG - Kinnaird's Edition of Gin, owned by Jim and JoAnn Reafsnyder
RESERVE WINNERS DOG - Whiskybae Yanky Trigger Man, owned by Susan and Gary Carr
WINNERS BITCH - Princescot Sweet Liberty, owned by Eric and Marlene Burgess and Helen Prince
RESERVE WINNERS BITCH - Hughcrest Strut N' Spar, owned by Debbie Mackie and Judy Hughes
BEST OF OPPOSITE SEX - Princescot Sweet Liberty
BEST OF BREED - Kinnaird's Edition of Gin

Exhibitors and spectators enjoyed the marvelous hospitality during the show. As always, the food was fabulous and abundant (especially those lobster roll sandwiches, ED.) The Specialty Dinner was held the next evening at the Sheraton-Lincoln Inn in new CH. WYCHWYRE WITCHCRAFT

Witchie is shown finishing her championship with her third 5-point specialty win at the Scottish Terrier Club of Chicago show under breeder judge Mrs. Elizabeth Cooper. She was also Best in Sweeps under judge Mr. John Sheehan.

This lovely black daughter of Ch. Sandgreg's Second Edition x Ch. Wychwyre Liberty is extremely sound with beautiful head, level topline - but most of all, an attitude that never quits!

Witchie is our 11th homebred champion - an admirable record for our limited breeding program of less than ten years.

The STCNO held a Puppy Match on May 16, 1987. Judge Dr. Ralph Reilly chose the following winners:

SENIOR PUPPY DOG - Pizzicato Peppercorn, owned by Ruthanne Lungociu
SENIOR PUPPY BITCH and BEST SENIOR PUPPY - Tandem's Tradewinds
ADULT DOG - Greggor Hill Imp of Hilray, owned by Hilda and Ray Bigelow
ADULT BITCH - Whatmaunbe Time Will Tell, owned by Barbara Tulanko BEST ADULT IN MATCH - Whatmaunbe Time Will Tell
BEST IN MATCH - Tandem Tradewinds, owned by Toni Hines and Ruthanne Lungociu

On Saturday, October 24th, the STCNO will host its Specialty with Roy Lay judging Sweepstakes, and Bob Bartos judging Regular Classes. The Show Secretary is Ellen Gordon, 5299 Miller Road South, NW, Bristolville, OH 44402.

GREATER PITTSBURGH STC "Straight Scotch"

Joy McDonald, Editor 208 S. Jefferson Ave, Canonsburg, PA 15317

The first of the AKC Sanctioned Matches was held on Saturday, August 15, 1987, judged by Mrs. Claribel Graham. The GPSTC was excited about this match, which was the beginning in our quest to become a sanctioned, show-giving club! Results of the match will appear in the next Bagpiper.

SAN FRANCISCO BAY STC "Bay Scot Bulletin"

Izzie McCool, Editor 2174 33rd Avenue, San Francisco, CA 94116

We are planning a "special" Specialty on September 12th, in celebration of our 20th Anniversary. One of our founding members, Mrs. Neatha Robinson, will be the judge of our Regular Classes, and Mrs. Carol Simonds will judge Sweepstakes. Our two remaining active founding members, Mrs. Betty Pengra and Mrs. Marjory Meeder will be honored at that time. Special trophies are being planned for the specialty.

Many new faces were seen at our June grooming session. Along with the Fun Match, we are planned a new edition of our "fun and games" open to all Scotties, whether in conformation, working trials, or just stay-at-home pets.

Helen Prince, Editor 7415 Newburg Drive, Lanham, MD 20706

Our 1987 Match was held on Saturday, June 6, 1987, at the home of Kathie McKessor, in Virginia. Mr. Stewart Gettle judged an entry of 26 Scotties—10 puppies, 10 adults, 3 veterans, and 3 champions.

BEST PUPPY IN MATCH - Princescot Power Play, owned by Helen and Norman Prince

BEST OF OPPOSITE SEX PUPPY - George Patrick, owned by Betty Lou Breese

BEST ADULT IN MATCH - Ashmoor's Arts N' Letters, owned by Bob and Laurie Moore

BEST OF OPPOSITE SEX ADULT - Ashton's Nutmeg, owned by Sue Smith

Also a very big part of the match (but not AKC Sanctioned), were the 17-year cicadas, which flew into exhibitors' hair, up their skirts, and on the dogs. Those of us who "survived" deserved the title "Diehard" that day!

The Joint Field Trial held with the Potomac Cairn Terrier Club on June 14, 1987, saw eleven Scotties qualify in the long tunnel. Highest in trial was a Scottie, Nua Curach, owned by Ann Gooch. Despite the prolonged temperatures of over 90 degrees, the STCGW again hosted the Working Terrier Field Trials at the Virginia Scottish Games on Sunday, July 26th.
