COVER STORY

Sandgreg congratulates "Sharkey" on his 8 Champions for 1987, five of these being Wheatens.

Three of his daughters are Specialty winners, among them Ch. Wychwyre Witchcraft, Best of Opposite Sex at Montgomery County, 1987, following in her Sire and Dam's tradition of being Winners at Montgomery County. We expect Sharkey to far exceed his '87 record this year.

Tied with Sharkey for '87 is Ch. Sandgreg's Journalist. Both of these boys are the sons of "Editorial". The true test of any great dog is in the generations to follow. Sharkey is doing just that.

Sharkey will also be watching with pride his grandchildren, sired by Ch. Sandgreg's Johnny Come Lately, making their ring debuts this year, and also his great grandson, Sandgreg's Johnny Be Good, Winners Dog at the Northern Ohio Specialty.

Sandgreg sends their love and appreciation to all those people who have recognized Sharkey's qualities.

"To see, be seen, to tell and gather tales."

A. Pope

As human beings we are irredeemably social and interdependent. Our involvement with pure-bred dogs binds the Scottish Terrier to us in heart and mind. They become a beloved extension of ourselves through which many transfer both their identity and perception of self-esteem. The successes of breeding and exhibiting may accrue both to the value of one's line and oneself. We may become fond of relating our wins and upon this tendency to brag can be said, "that men are on this account a nuisance one to the other." We hope, through advertising and presenting, to exhibit those specimens which can be of value in perpetuating the qualities of our breed.

The formal organizations of dogdom are many and varied. The American Kennel Club, the STCA., Regional Clubs, All Breed Clubs, and others, each developed and charged with desirable objectives for achievement. These higher goals are generally agreed upon by all. It is in the day to day affairs of dogdom that there is often disagreement on progress and means as well as the inevitable overlapping of areas of authority and responsibility. Formal lines of communication between these organizations and their membership are often ineffective and inadequate. The informal grapevine often supplants official communication systems.

Recently we have all been involved, whether directly or indirectly, with the proposals by the AKC relative to changes in the Best of Winners award and the age requirements for a Champion. Official pronouncements, publications and verbal discussions at every dog related event abounded. All trivial gossip made way for often heated arguments on the pros and cons of these amendments. The formal and informal lines of communication were flooded. We were united in our perception of the importance of these changes if not in agreement on the resolution. Valid reasons were presented by each side and intelligent dialogue took place and precedent over malicious gossip and self-interested bragging. I believe we gained in the process.

We need now to develop and extend the formal lines of communication between organizations and our membership. The communication must be in two directions. Not only in the accurate conveying of information, but in the mutually respectful listening to valid concerns. Change and conflict are inevitable and persistent. It is how we provide for open, fair and honest discussion and resolution that needs to be addressed. The diffuse nature of pure-bred dogs contributes to a crisis in communication.

The formal publications of the AKC and breed clubs should be required reading for all informed participants. These publications must therefore extend themselves to present issues of interest and concern to the membership. Our need-to-know is evident in the abundance of magazines and newspapers dedicated to the doggy public. These are packed with the "inside scoop" and "gossipy tidbits" which readers relish. Too often the technical and high content articles are ignored and/or skimmed.

"Tell me to what you pay attention and I will tell you who you are."

Ortega Y. Gasset

The most timely and lively form of communication in dogs, from one side of the country to another, from breed to breed and up and down the doggy social ladder is the grapevine. This gossip, or unofficial source of information, whether true or false often takes on a life and power of its own. One must be accurate in the telling and skeptical in the listening.

As part of a program to improve breed standards the AKC has proposed to prepare an analytical report on each breed standard. The goal is to deliver those reports by the end of 1988. Clubs presently working on their standards and those requesting shall be done first. The S.T.C.A. has not requested this prioritization. The September report to the delegates listed the major areas to be addressed as omissions, reordering, terminology and clarification. The stated goal is to be certain that all standards are complete and accurate. This report states that "there is no intention to change standards", while "One person's definition of 'change' may vary considerably from another's." Many questions about the program need to be answered. If you have not seen the Standard Program Report Synopsis distributed to the delegates on September 15, 1987 you may obtain a copy from an AKC delegate or from our Secretary.

The S.T.C.A. has signed a contract with a new facility for Montgomery County, 1988. We hope to have rooms available at our new headquarters for all our membership. The independent Sweepstakes on Saturday afternoon will move indoors. The larger site will provide banquet space for our annual meeting and offer a sit down dinner. National Show Chairman, Betty McArthur and her Committee will be finalizing arrangements and informing you as to what we all hope will be a great Specialty week end.

Regional Clubs are urged to send a representative to our Regional Clubs' Committee meeting at our Rotating Specialty week end in Colorado. Chairman Charla Hill will be sending each group time, date and an agenda. This group can be a direct conduit between the Parent Club and its regional organizations. We need you there to share, to listen and to be heard. Please plan ahead to send a representative.

Hopefully, we can work together to the benefit of the breed and toward our constitutional objectives. We need your involvement and participation.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Members and Friends of the STCA:

The coming Rotating Specialty in Denver will be my last show as your Trophy Chairman. I want to take this opportunity to thank each and every one of you for the wonderful and generous support you gave the STCA Trophy Fund for the last two years that I have been Chairman. You made my job lots of fun and very rewarding.

Your new National Trophy Chairman will be Sue Martin. Please give her the great and generous support you have given me.

Barbara DeSaye

Dear Editor:

Please include this in the next issue of The Bagpiper.

It is not too early to plan—so get out your calendar for this year the Canadian Kennel Club is celebrating its 100th Anniversary with four days of great dog activity. On Tuesday, August 30, 1988 the Canadian Scottish Terrier Club will hold its Specialty followed by two Canadian Kennel Club Shows on August 31st and September 1st and the London Canine Association Show on Friday, September 2nd. A gala week and one STCA members might like to participate in. These shows will be held in Toronto and will have Conformation and Obedience classes. If you wish further information contact Elizabeth McKellar, 15 Oregon Road, London, Ontario N5Z 4B8 or Mary Ellen Chambers, 36 Fishleigh Drive, Toronto, Ontario, M1N 1H2. Try the Canadian shows. You will enjoy them and these should be very special.

Ruth Tryon

Dear STCA Members:

As I write, 1987 is ending. It is snowing and the birds are flocking to our feeders. I feel the need to reflect on this past year and its memorable moments. Many seemingly "small moments" are oft times the best! I must share one particular event.

At an all-breed, outdoor show in September I was gating my bitch around the ring and the exhibitor behind me was intent on encouraging his bitch as we all do from time to time. Intent upon bringing out the best in his bitch (as he should do) he was following a bit too close to me, which, in effect, distracted my entry. As soon as he discovered his error he immediately corrected himself and I honestly thought nothing more of the situation.

What a lovely surprise to have this gentleman approach me after the classes and sincerely apologize for distracting my dog!

Wouldn't it be great if everyone who exhibited dogs were as considerate?

I'm proud to know Mr. Paul DeBene of Michigan and I just wanted you to know him too.

Ruth Ann Krause

A Note From The Editor:

Will the person who wrote to me in November inquiring about International and/or Triple Crown winners please write to me again stating the question a little more clearly, and please include your name and address.

"A life that touches the hearts

Dearly loved . . . Sadly missed . . .

Chris & Judy Hughes

I call my postcard collection my "closet collection". Although it is my favorite area of my over 3,000 Scottish Terrier antiques and collectibles, I house it in a large book (with special plastic pages) in a cabinet. Over the years I have enjoyed this realm of collecting, because it affords a collector the opportunity to own many great pieces of art work by some very prominent artists for nominal prices.

It is interesting to have a visual record which traces the history and development of a breed standard through postcard collecting. Many early postcards were sepia tone or black and white photos. This gives a very clear picture of the changes the various breeds have undergone since the 1870s. In my collection of Scottish Terriers, one can easily assess the development of the dog from its early beginnings as a working Terrier, with few furnishings and beard, to our present-day highly feathered and trimmed Scottie. The collector can also recognize changes in weight and size, which enable us to date many of the cards by the particular style of the illustrated dog.

This historic record is available in almost all of the breeds shown today. During different time periods, some breeds were more popular than others. An example in point is the Saint Bernard, which was depicted on many trade cards before 1870 and on postcards in the 1900s. Lovely postcard sets of Saint Bernard puppies in barrels, with a scenic park background and a set of cards with a little girl in a white-and-pink frock next to a Saint, appeared around 1900. These cards were printed in sets of six, using the same subjects in different poses. They are very early photos, hand-colored and then printed.

Before 1870, we find many lovely trade cards which depicted various Toy breeds as advertising subjects. However, with the introduction of the postcard after 1870, postcards proved extremely popular, not only for correspondence but as a collectible. Many Victorian homes had lovely velvet, colored albums in their parlors which contained beautiful postcard collections. The Victorians usually collected card in specific areas such as the holidays — Christmas, Valentine's Day, New Years and Easter.

It is fortunate for dog collectors that many of these beautiful cards used dogs as their subjects. The Dachshund was used extensively in postcards depicting a holiday theme.

It is fun to buy an early postcard and try to guess the date or time period of its origin by the standard of the dog depicted or the decoration used on the card. Many of the cards are postmarked, to give a frame of reference for dating. However, many cards were issued over a long period of time. For example Lucy Dawson's cards, which are always signed "Mac", have continued to be so popular that publishing companies have begun reissuing the cards in England. However, the quality of printing and ink used in the early cards cannot be duplicated, and new cards are easily distinguishable from the early ones. Another hint in dating postcards is that single-back cards without a center line predate 1907, and postcards without zipcodes predate 1965. There were also pressed cards, the majority of which were issued in Germany, which embossed the subjects in the cards. These cards were prepared for holidays such as Christmas and Easter. They were issued around the 1900-1910 period. One of my favorites of this type of postcard is a group of Bichons, with a Merry Christmas salutation and holly decoration which are embossed in the card. I find these make a lovely gift when matted and framed.

It is also interesting to see the variety of countries which produced postcards. Among the leading postcard producers are Great Britain, Germany, U.S., France, Belgium, Switzerland and Italy. There are various companies which specialized in issuing dog postcards as sets. Among the companies which published sets of dog postcards were Valentine, Rapheal Tuck, Alma, Alfred Manzier, Tichnor Bros., Bamforth, Edition Stahl, STZF Co., MWM Co., and M & L Co.

These companies employed artists of the highest caliber to illustrate these cards. Some are: Aldin, Cecil; 1920-30, Tuck, England; Berkley, Stanley; 1903 - Unknown; Dawson, Lucy (Mac); 1930-40s Valentine, England; Daws, Frederick Thomas; 1900, Johnson, Riddle England, also ads for Spratt's dog food - England; Dennis, Morgan; 1940-60,

This handsome "ace" flew to a finish in just nine missions, all from the Bred by Exhibitor squadron. His initial flights included a Specialty win and second in Montgomery County Sweeps and classes. His total flight record includes four Best of Breeds and five Best of Winners. His only time out as a "General" he captured a Best of Breed. In January, he'll be a squadron commander of new recruits.

Special postcards for the Black and White Scotch Company, which were reproductions of his famous ads. Drummond, Norah; 1906-1935, Tuck, England (Sporting dogs also Pet Dog Series of Toy breeds); Gear, Mabel; 1930-50, Valentine (Dog Series). Also reissued today as a greeting card. Hayes, Sydney; 1930. Valentine and Tuck, England; Moody, Fannie; 1920, STZF Co. Switzerland; Muller, Augustus; 1904, Germany (mostly Dachies and Sporting Dogs). No company name on the cards. Ruist, I.; 1900, Edition Stehli-Switzerland; Landseer, Sir Edwin; 1904, Tuck, England; Smith, May; 1949, Hale, Cushmann & Flint, Boston, MA; Stokes, Vernon; 1903, Anon.; Taylor; 1930s, Bamforth, England; Thorne, Diana; 1930-40, Tuck, England; Valter, Florence; 1930s, Valentine, England; Watson, Maud West; 1930, Tuck, England; Zito; 1937, Novel Art Picture., NY.

Because the postcard industry was so lucrative, the manufacturers were able to employ many of the leading artists of the day to create sketches and paintings which were used for card designs. These artist-signed cards have increased greatly in value. They are extremely charming and vary from cartoon dogs by Zito to very serious studies of the breeds by English artist Arthur Wardle. It is interesting to note that an Arthur Wardle painting of two Setters which was used for a cigarette card sold at auction in England (several years ago) for about 7,000 pounds which was then about $9,500.00

I was very fortunate to have the pleasure of spending a day with Miss Betty Penn Bull of Kennelgarth Scottish Terrier Kennels on a trip to England. When we were discussing the breed and the famous artists who depicted Scotties, the subject of Lucy Dawson came up. To my great delight, Miss Penn Bull showed me some original drawings and paintings that Lucy Dawson had done of her famous Kennelgarth stock. I had always loved the Dawson Scots, and now I know why the Scotties were of such fine quality—as Miss Penn Bull had bred them.

She went on to tell me that Lucy Dawson was a neighbor of hers and she often used the dogs of friends for her work. But she considered herself a serious artist and when approached to do a series of dogs for Valentine Postcard Co. in the 1930s, it seemed beneath her talents. So she decided to take the pen name "Mac".

So if you find a drawing or postcard signed in script "Mac", you will then have a piece of Lucy Dawson's work

As you have probably gathered by now, postcard collecting is a very entertaining hobby. In my years of collecting, I have obtained over 400 cards of Scottish Terriers. The collecting of postcards makes it possible for everyone to enjoy the talents of many great artists at a price which is affordable to all. I have often framed and matted favorite cards or sets for display. Besides the pure enjoyment, this field of deltiology has become a good investment.

THE GROOMING CORNER

By Joann Glaser

JUDGING THE ROLL

Many people, experienced Scottie people and novices, often wonder just how long to wait between working the coat when establishing the roll. Some people simply use a convenient span of time such as once or twice a month. Dogs grow coat at much different rates, so such rules of thumb don't often work very well.

Here is a solution to this problem. Each time you strip your Scottie, do the clipper work as well. Then, each day you can look at the clipped area to judge just how long the coat has grown since the last roll stripping.

The Grooming Corner can use your help. If you know of a breeder or handler who may have a good tip or you would like to know how they do something, please drop us a note and we will enquire whether that person would like to share the idea. Send to:

YOUR SCOTTISH TERRIER

The Perfect Excuse To Vacation In Canada

By Carole Frye Owen

North of the border there is a vacationland of dog shows awaiting Scottish Terrier exhibitors; more than 450 all-breed shows annually, each one offering all the excitement of touring a foreign country with the challenge of working toward an additional championship title on your dog.

At least 60 of these shows are in Alberta. Watching coverage of the Winter Olympics during February may have whetted your appetite to discover Alberta yourself. If so, Calgary, home of the rip-roaring annual Stampede, and neighboring Banff National Park are just the beginning of what can be combined with Alberta's dog shows.

You can angle for trout in the Bow River near Calgary, for instance. It runs along the show site of the Alberta Kennel Club's three summer shows which begin July 30, the day after the All Terrier Club of Alberta Specialty. Trout are barely more than a cast from ringside in this river that experts call the best dry fly fishing in the world.

You could one day add a snowcoach tour to Jasper National Park's Columbia Icefield, the largest icefield in the North American subarctic interior. Might as well do the Ice Cubed Walk while in Jasper. It's a three-hour guided adventure across the Athabasca Glacier.

Then there's a shopper's delight: the West Edmonton Mall in Edmonton, the world's largest shopping center with inside amusement park. Submarines, ancient galleon, 828 retail stores and 135 places to eat are all under one roof.

Or instead, you may prefer to step back several million years. Alberta is dinosaur country. Drumheller's Tyrrell Museum of Palaeontology is the world's most extensive display of dinosaurs, and the world famous Dinosaur Trail is nearby in the Red River Valley Badlands. Alberta's Dinosaur Provincial Park deserves mention also. It's one of the richest fossil finds anywhere and was original stomping grounds of at least 35 species of dinosaurs.

Get the idea? Canada can put dogs in perspective for even the most diehard fanciers. After all why should dog shows be days of nothing but dogs?

My husband and I found it very easy to enjoy four days of dogs shows in Calgary last summer and still play half-day tourist in Banff National Park, just 60 miles away. Calgary was the site of the 1987 Canadian Scottish Terrier Club Roving Specialty.

As we left Texas more than 2000 miles behind, it was fun to conjecture what familiar faces we might find in Calgary. Whatever shows you choose in Canada, don't be surprised to see home folks. In Ontario two years before, we'd found an unexpected contingent of Texas terrier folks, plus several Texas professional handlers.

At Calgary it was a pleasant surprise to spy STCA member Susan Morris at ringside. We'd met several years ago in New York as we both took in our first Westminster. Susan is an experienced Canadian exhibitor, but had driven up with husband Steve from Rathdrum, Idaho just to watch the Canadian National.

Former fellow members of the Greater Dallas Scottish Terrier Club, Rob and Shauna Pratt, were there, too—now as Canadian natives who'd exchanged the Dallas/Fort Worth Metroplex for Calgary and the Canadian Rockies. Old friends, STCA members Jorge and Pat Torrejon, Vancouver, B.C., happened to be visiting family in Calgary and came out to root for our young wheaten male that they'd babysat for as a puppy.

On an official basis, there were still more familiar faces from the STCA. John DeSaye, Lapeer, MI, then STCA President, judged the National Roving Sweepstakes; and STCA member and breeder judge, Elizabeth Cooper, Arvada, CO had accepted the assignment to sort out the regular classes.

Next Summer the National Roving won't be in Calgary, but there will be the All Terrier Club of Alberta Specialty, plus many other all-breed shows. Consider this sampling:

Alberta All-Breed Shows for Summer, 1988

June 3,4,5 — Northland Kennel Club, McMurray (6 shows in 3 days)*

June 10, 11, 12 — Northern Alberta Canine Association, Edmonton

June 24, 25, 26 — Grande Prairie Regional Kennel Club, Grande Prairie

July 15, 16, 17 — Evelyn Kenny Kennel and Obedience Club, Calgary (the same time as Calgary's famous Stampede, July 8-17!)

July 22, 23, 24 — Lakeland Kennel Club, Bonnyville

July 30, 31, August 1 — Alberta Kennel Club, Calgary (preceded July 29 by the All Terrier Club of Alberta Specialty)

August 4,5,6,7 — Westerly Dog Club, Stony Plain *

Farther east is the heartland of Canadian Scottish Terrier Club membership. In 1987, 25 of the 50 individual or joint memberships in CSTC were in Ontario. Consequently, one might assume Ontario could be the area of the largest Scottie entries. However, anyone deciding what Canadian shows to take in should check show records published in Dogs In Canada (address at end of article) for past entries. Even with no Scottie competition, it is possible to pick up points in Canada, but you'll have to do it in a rather impressive way taking Group 1, 2, 3 or 4.

The calendar of Canada's summer shows is too extensive to print in The Bagpiper. For specifics, request Dogs in Canada's show calendar for the months you are considering.

Last year, for instance, summer all-breed dog shows started in Ontario in Thornhill on June 5 and ended in Markham August 30. In between there were all-breed shows at Oshawa, Kingston, Hamilton, Fort Erie, Peterborough, Blyth, Tavistock, Woodstock, Kars, Carleton Place, Sault Ste. Marie and Elliott Lake. I may have missed a few shows, but you get the picture. There are plenty to choose among.

At most of these towns you can count on not one, but two or three all-breed shows, at one site. Just sit down with a Canadian map, the Dogs In Canada show schedule and a vacation planner brochure from Tourism Canada. Decide what part of Canada piques your interest most; and chances are there'll be a dog show, probably a three-day one, not too distant from your dream destination.

If you want to get really exotic with a Canadian dog show vacation, you might head for Whitehorse, Yukon, or into Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island. Or how could you go wrong with a show at some place with a name like Trois Rivieres, Quebec?

However, the really BIG show for Canada in '88 will be the Canadian Kennel Club's Centennial Show in Toronto. It will include a two-day all-breed show September 1 and 2; and about 40 Specialties beginning August 30. Premium lists will be available from the Canadian Kennel Club (address later in article).

The year 1988 will be a special time for the Scottish Terrier fancy in Canada, too. The Canadian Scottish Terrier Club is celebrating its Silver 25th Anniversary and will culminate its gala year at the Toronto Convention Centre in August/September along with the CKC Centennial Show and Specialties. The CSTC National Specialty there will be judged by STCA member and AKC Delegate Dr. T. Allen Kirk, Jr., Roanoke, VA; and Sandra Anderson, Chess Kennels, Brockville, Ontario will judge Puppy Sweeps.

*These dates have yet to be confirmed by the Canadian Kennel Club.

By the tender age of 11 mos., he had finished without a single reserve and had taken 3 majors in a BOW weekend with stiff competition. This homebred "Eddie" son plans to add to his single BOB when shown by his co-owner.

A PLEA FOR HELP

The Editor of the Newsletter for the San Francisco Bay STC. wrote this in the January 1, 1988 issue of The Bay Scot Bulletin.

"After having blood panel work done on several of my dogs through the past number of years, my curiosity is getting the best of me. The range for the liver in dogs is 150-300 (I am not sure what the rest of the abbreviations are) but all of my Scotties tested have never come within the 'normal' range. One bitch that was first tested at five years was well above the high normal. At 8 or 9 she was well above 1,000. At 10, she was almost 1300. She appears strong and healthy in every other respect. Her granddaughter at 4 tested above 700.

"If any of you have had blood work done on your dogs, would you please send me a photocopy of your results. It would not matter if you no longer have the dog involved. What I am hoping is that if I can collect enough information and tabulate it, my veterinarian might be able to interest someone in researching our findings to see if this is peculiar to our breed or if their 'normal' range is unrealistic."
