Editor's Corner

Due to health problems I have been battling this year, I am resigning as editor one issue early. I would like to take this opportunity to express my thanks to those who helped me along the way. They, for the most part, have gone far beyond the call of duty and without these people I would certainly be a basket case by this time. If I've left anyone out, I hope you'll forgive me, and not hold it against the next editor.

I would like to thank Jan Olsen of Sales Partners, Unlimited first and foremost because without her my issues of The Bagpiper would not have been possible at all. She was always there when I needed her. Her expertise helped make these issues as good as they are. When I called her with every new challenge, she would just say "I'll do it" and then she would do it. No snivelling, no waffling, no whining. That kind of professionalism is hard to come by.

Freddi Miller did her part as proof-reader to perfection and without her, there would have been numerous embarrassments. She was also a source of strength at times when I was feeling the most stressed.

The coordinating efforts of Betty McArthur as Treasurer of the STCA were professional and efficient in every way. Her friendship is one that I value very much and hope never to lose.

Debby Knous certainly came through too, as both a desktop publisher and as a friend who took me through the first issue, which was certainly the hardest issue. She made me laugh when I needed it most.

Shirley Justus as Recording Secretary of the STCA, whom I really didn't know at all when I began this project, was on time with everything from board minutes to mailing labels. I also count the friendship I have with her now as one of the biggest assets gained from this experience.

Every time I asked for anything, Izzie McCool as Corresponding Secretary of the STCA, responded in a very timely manner. She always returned my phone calls immediately and never once was anything but totally helpful.

Diane Zollinger, another friend who can always make me laugh, was the first to call with the offer to help in any way she could. Thanks for the support.

I'd be remiss if I did not thank all those people who called and wrote with compliments, and supported my editions with ads. It was great to get positive feedback.

Lastly, I'd like to tell The San Francisco Bay Scottish Terrier Club how much I appreciate their support, especially since I didn't manage to make many board meetings, general meetings or events while I was fulfilling my duties as editor.

Please direct all inquiries about subscriptions, articles, advertising etc. to Jackie Seelbach, 17 Pine Tree Road, Ramsey NJ 07446, (201) 327-9398 or to other members of the Board.

If you are interested in being The Bagpiper editor, please contact in writing:

Isabelle McCool
2174-33rd Avenue
San Francisco, CA 94116

She will send you a job description. You should be prepared to assume the position for the Winter, 1993 issue.

Remember, this is a very big job & requires a great amount of commitment (and a great amount of patience & understanding from your family).

ADVERTISING

For those sending in advertising, please follow these guidelines for the best results:

Photos will reproduce best if there is good contrast! If there is a black dog against a dark background, then the dog will not be seen well at all and the same applies to a wheaten on a light background. Also, the process used to produce half-tones sees red as black, so it is best not to have a black dog against a red background. Barring an accident, your photo will not be harmed by making a halftone of it.

You should indicate how much of the photo is to be used. Cut out a box in a white sheet of paper & attach it on the photo with something that won't harm the photo. Place the cutout over the portion you want used. If you don't indicate cropping, and you do not give instructions that indicate how to crop the photo or that the artist can crop your photo, then your entire photo will be used. Your photo does not need to be cut to size, and will not be cut in the half-tone process.

For the least amount of legibility problems, copy should always be typed. You may include a hand written lay-out, but also include a typed copy as well.

You may indicate kinds of type you wish to have used, but the artist may not have that kind available. Therefore it may not be possible to give you exactly what you want.

The earlier you get your ad to the editor, the better. Ads not postmarked by the deadline will not go into that edition. (Editor's note: I'm not kidding!)

Please Note: It is the policy of the board that no name shall be used on the ad unless that person is a member of the STCA. Please keep this in mind if you are having your ad typeset.

Checks for the ads made out to the STCA must come with the ad. Look at the rates listed to see what your ad will cost.

ARTICLES

Please send your articles on disk if at all possible. I can accept 5.25" or 3.5" high density disks using MSdos Word for Windows, Word, Word Perfect or any standard ASCII file. I can probably convert Mac files. These formats are listed in order of preference.

Please use a 5.5" X 8.5" size page if possible, leaving only a single space after periods, and give each article a file name of its own. Also, please spell check your articles.

It is very important that you also send hard copy of your article in case your article cannot be accessed.

If you cannot provide a disk, please send a typed copy of your article to:

Jackie Seelbach
17 Pine Tree Road
Ramsey NJ 07446

and also a typed copy to:

Diane Zollinger
PO Box 1893
Woodinville WA 98072

You may also fax your copy to Diane at (206) 668-7358.

Please keep in mind that the editor may not be able to use every article I receive.

3 "Membership in the national club was approximately 200 to 240 through the 1950's, increasing to 600 in the 1970's and the present membership is about 1200".

4 "A weekend to remember in 1987 was the 129th rotating specialty, hosted in March by the Greater Dallas Scottish Terrier Club, Robert Marshall chose Ch. Simonsez Charlie the Charmer, owned by Louise Simon and Frances Moore, for Best of Breed, and Muriel Lee chose Ken and Betty McArthur's Sally Rand Best in Sweepstakes."

5 Anstamm Heatwave owned by Anstamm Kennels was Best in Sweepstakes.

7 "The STC of New England, celebrating its 50th anniversary, hosted the rotating specialty in June, Sandra Anderson judged the sweepstakes and chose Ravenscraig Rampage owned by Alberto & Jeannie Jennings as her best in Sweepstakes."

7 "New trophies added this year were the Bernice Ayres Memorial trophy, a sterling silver water pitcher, given by Mrs. Elizabeth Bullock for the breeder of the best in sweepstakes winner at the Montgomery County weekend."

7 "Although not present, the list also included Blanche Reeg, Robert Graham, Nick Levandoski..."

37 - 43 "THE SCOTTISH TERRIER - AN OVERVIEW by Dan Kiedrowski (Reprinted with permission of Terrier Type)" A correction, printed by Terrier Type in November, 1988, was omitted:

"CORRECTIONS: In the July SCOTTIE SPECIAL Issue, we really made a mess of the facts concerning the top Specialty-winning bitch. Ch. Hughcrest Bottoms Up. To begin with she was owned and shown throughout her career by Christine & Michael Cook (Bar-None), not the Hughes (see page 54) And on page 44 we credited her as a Lloyd Trophy winner in 1982, when it was, in fact won by her sire Ch. Dunbar's Democrat of Sandoone. We also erred in stating that she was out of Ch. Sonata Serenade, when, in fact she is out of Ch. Hughcrest Happy Hour. Our apologies in the case of "Cricket" seem so inadequate in this, so very special issue."

50 "The Bernice Ayers Memorial Trophy offered by Mrs. Elizabeth Bullock for the breeder of the Best in Sweepstakes winner at the Fall Specialty Show."

50 "Gaines Good Sportsmanship Medal. This award is given by Gaines Dog Food to honor a person who has worked behind-the-scenes, giving unselfishly of their time and talents for the STCA or Regional Clubs."

53 "THE FRANCIS G. LLOYD MEMORIAL PERPETUAL TROPHY"

218-219 The 'HASLEMERE' logo was omitted.

Final 1991 Awards Standings

Everyone exhibiting dogs should confirm AKC Gazette show information and the STCA Tally Committee's report as listed in this issue and notify Vandra L. Huber, 18831 NE 140th Place, Woodinville, WA 98072-6301 Telephone 206 881-5809 of any discrepancies. This report covers shows from Jan. 4 through December 31, 1991. The numbers following the dog's name represent points earned for the year for the award as tallied from AKC Gazette Awards.

Thank You Committee Members

The compilation of show results is not an easy process. First, show results are extracted from the AKC Show Results book, enlarged, copied and distributed to committee members. Next, committee members enter onto index cards or word processing, the name of each dog, its owner, the show and the number of points. Points by month are tallied and compiled by quarter. Committee members spend as much as 100 hours (all unpaid) per year preparing the results for the club. As awards chairperson, I personally would like to thank each committee member and urge other STCA members to thank them personally.

If you would like to help, we still need help for 1992. Tallies can be computed by hand on index cards or we have an IBM program available for those who have computers. Help us out. We need you.

On August 2, 1992, STCGNY held its annual Match Show and potluck picnic at the Knolls Country Club and Golf Course, Parsippany, NJ. As always, this was a day of fun and excitement, renewing old acquaintances and making new friend. Entries were judged by Mr. Geoff Dawson. Tom Natalini's and Marlene & Eric Burgess's bitch Stonehedge Rocket O'Stonehedge was Best Adult in Match. Alchemy's Tincture of Angel, a bitch owned by Russ & Mary Lou Somma was Best Puppy in Match. Tom Jordan's and John Lose's High Meadow's Tough Talk and Duane Meehan's Argyle were judged Best of Opposite in Match in Adult and Puppy Class respectively. Special consideration must be made to Match Show Chairperson Susan Finn and Picnic Coordinator Kathleen Zetcher.

Recently our club hosted a grooming seminar and photo session with club member Richard Hiller sharing his time and grooming expertise with those in attendance. Noted photographer Joseph Cirincione captured the freshly groomed Scots in all their glory.

In May STCGNY held a show handling class at the Millington Fire House.

George Heinz and Lance Wolf, members of the Weimaraner Club of America were our guest instructors.

Even as the summer months are in full swing, we eagerly look forward to the fall season, cooler weather and Montgomery County 1992. Hope to see you all there.

An informal grooming workshop and pot luck was held in June. It was a good opportunity for everyone to learn a few tips and to help each other with both pet and show grooming.

We are diligently working on our 2nd Specialty. It will be held on January 11, 1993 at Lakeland, FL. AKC has approved our judging panel as: James Reynolds, from Canada, for regular classes and Gail Gaines from Louisville, KY, for Sweepstakes. This is in conjunction with the January Circuit that is held every year here in Florida. It is a good opportunity to get the majors that we all are looking for and to get out of the cold weather. Y'all come!

Canine Platelets are Virtually Devoid of Von Willebrand Factor

This is an abstract submitted by Dr. W. Jean Dobbs and her associates at the Wadsworth Laboratory (New York State Department of Health, Division of Laboratories & Research, Empire Plaza in Albany, New York) to the American Society of Hematology 33rd Annual Meeting.

Submitted by Ann B. Bower
Barraglen Scottish Terriers & Sky Terriers
Grants Pass, OR

Human platelet von Willebrand Factor (vWF) has been shown to be synthesized in megakaryocytes and is secreted from platelet α -granules in response to stimuli. The relative amount of intraplatelet vWF reported for pig, guinea pig and monkey platelets is comparable to human. Amounts reported for dog platelets are the subject of some controversy and range from undetectable to as high as 15% human intraplatelet vWF. Platelet vWF appears to be an important determinant of bleeding time in type I human von Willebrand's Disease (vWD) and has been implicated in the initial phases of hemostatic plug formation, vWF releases from human platelets in concert with plasma vWF mediates high shear rate-induced platelet aggregation. This pathway of platelet aggregation is potentially critical in initiating and/or mediating the formation of occlusive thrombi in stenosed atherosclerotic vessels. Given the importance of the canine model of vWD and the absence of significant atherosclerotic disease in dogs, we have measured vWF in Triton-X100 (15) lysates of washed (3x) normal canine platelets; human platelets; guinea pig platelets and Type III canine vWD platelets. All were washed under conditions to prevent release of α -granule constituents and proteolysis of vWF.

Quantification of vWF in platelet lysates from normal canine, human and guinea pig platelets by ELISA demonstrated 0.014 ± 0.007 ($n=15$); 0.41 ± 0.12 ($n=6$) and 0.15 ± 0.007 ($n=6$) units vWF per 10 to the 9th power platelets, respectively. No vWF was detected in lysates of canine type III vWD platelets. Qualitative analysis of vWF in lysates by SDS-Agarose electrophoresis (1 - 1.4% gels) using affinity-purified 125I-labeled antibody to vWF and autoradiography clearly demonstrated the presence of ultra-high molecular weight multimers in normal human and guinea pig platelets but not in canine platelets. These results suggest that endocytotic mechanisms play an insignificant role in alpha granule accumulation of vWF in canine platelets and raise questions regarding canine megakaryocyte synthesis of vWF. Studies to evaluate vWF synthesis by canine megakaryocytes are in progress.

The Eyes, The Trusting Eyes

by Carole Fry Owen

A Cocker friend in Midland alerted me that she had heard that two Scotties had been picked up and were in the Midland Animal Control Shelter. Midland Animal Control is a three-day kill shelter, so I lost no time in going to check on the dogs. I drove the 40 miles over from Big Spring the same day.

Mac looked like he had been on the road for months. He was hopelessly matted. His skin was crusted, his coat repulsively oily. Ticks were still feasting on him although he'd been dipped when he came into Animal Control with his female housemate. Both were Scotties.

These Scotties were wearing tags when captured. The dogs had been picked up separately, but belonged to the same family. I was told at the front desk that the owners had been notified, but might not be picking them up. The women didn't think her husband would let her get the Scotties back.

Mac was in pen #26. He was one year old, and I learned his name later. I knew the housemate only as the Scottie in pen #9, for she was not there the second time I visited. She was two, and surely if his name was Mac, her's must have been the generic "Heather". "Heather" cringed in her pen. She was confused, shy and afraid; didn't know how to deal with me in these surroundings. She was obviously overwhelmed by the din of barking I had set off when I walked down the line of immaculate pens looking for #9 and #26. Mac, on the other hand, came right up to the gate, wagging his tail. He had a sniff and several licks for me. He was a resilient dog, even among these disoriented castoffs of the canine world.

Since I was leaving town for weekend shows, I hoped to buy some time for this pair. I discussed the two with the animal control director and told him I could come back Monday to groom them. The director assured me the dogs weren't in imminent danger of being put down. He explained that small purebred dogs were fairly adoptable and that Midland Animal Control usually tries to hold on to them longer than the stated three-day hold period. Nevertheless, I asked him to register my name and phone number on the dogs' cards, so that I could be called if it came down to euthanizing the two Scotties.

When I returned to groom the dogs, the female was gone. She'd been adopted. Mac was still there and still happy to see me. A kennel girl showed me the way to the euthanasia room where there was space for my grooming table next to a bathtub. I set to work clipping through the greasy hair and digging through matts. I hoped to save enough furnishings so that Mac would look like a Scottie once trimmed and bathed. I told myself he would surely be more adoptable if he looked like a well groomed Scottish Terrier.

Lil is pictured winning BEST IN SHOW under Judge Charlotte Clem McGowan after capturing the terrier group under Breeder-Judge Lynn Weaver.

Part way into the job, the kennel girls told me I would need to move across the hall to work in the kitchen. It was time to euthanize dogs. As I shifted my table, I glanced into two large rolling cages in the hall. One contained an Australian Cattle Dog. From the other, the soft trusting eyes of two adolescent Brittanies looked out at me. Less than an hour earlier, I had seen the Brittanies pulled out of the rear end of a camper pickup by two men as I unloaded my grooming gear. I had heard the Animal Control receptionist tell the men that there was no room at the facility and that the dogs would be put to sleep right away. The men left their dogs anyway.

As the afternoon progressed, I watched a series of other dogs coaxed into the euthanasia room with the last kind human words they would hear. Then the door would shut. There were no screams, barks or yelps of pain. The end was humane. When the door opened once, I looked up from Mac to see a large limp body that looked like a sporting dog. It was sobering to realize it could just as easily have been the black brindle body of this Scottie I was grooming.

Back to Mac. He was a very personable little guy. Someone had wanted him as a puppy one short year ago. Now they didn't. He clearly had not been brushed for months, let alone clipped or bathed. Somehow he let me shred his mats without excess complaint. If he had been serious about stopping me, my only option would have been to cut off all the coat. Thanks to a basic good nature, Mac still had furnishings and looked very much a Scottish Terrier when I finished two and one-half hours after entering the euthanasia room with him.

When the kennel girl complimented Mac on what a different dog he was beginning to look like, she mentioned that he and the female Scottie had papers. I asked to see Mac's. I did not recognize the breeder's name of the AKC certificate. His sire and dam were "just dogs", no recognizable kennel prefix before their names.

However, the four generation pedigree of the male that was either Mac's sire or grandsire was a different story. He also was "just dog", but in that pedigree I noted many champions and familiar breeders' names. I counted the prefixes of six active, well known breeders who are STCA members, four well-known old-time kennels that are no longer producing dogs and two champion prefixes I didn't recognize at all. Among the dogs were several that had been bred by two members of my regional club.

Folks, we as STCA members can't say we are not part of the dog overpopulation problem. Mac may not have been bred by an STCA member, but his pedigree probably does not lie. A possible scenario is that several champion males were used on bitches that may have been well bred, but evidently had been sold as pets without spay-neuter provisions. Then their offspring entered the backyard breeding loop. This is how it all gets started. We don't need to blame the problem entirely on puppy mills. The last two or three generations before Mac were simply pets that the owners deecided to breed, but they were available for breeding, i.e., they existed because of us.

Who bears the responsibility for Mac? It is easy to say that "WE" did not breed Mac. But then again, one looks at that pedigree. "OUR" names are there. STCA members' names are there in plain black and white.

We can help prevent disposable Macs in the future by two easy ways:

1. Insist that the pet dogs/bitches we breed and sell be neutered and spayed. (Please let us resist the temptation to let a well bred pet produce a litter in turn for a pick puppy. We thus leave an utter novice the responsibility of finding homes for the rest of the litter);
2. Be highly selective in choosing the breeders we allow to use our stud dogs, for it is the bitch owner who has the only real control of the breeding futures of our males' offspring!

What about the Macs of today?

Do you say you can't afford to mix a strange Mac in your own household with your own show Scots, no matter how briefly?

Here is one inexpensive and not-too-time-consuming alternative to each STCA family. Contact your local animal control, humane society or shelter (maybe even several in your area) and offer to groom free of charge any Scottie that comes through its doors. With more than 1000 STCA members, we can make a difference all over America. We can make the disposable Scottie that someone else has bred (and which may be, in fact, descended from our own dogs) more adoptable. Perhaps other quick-kill animal control facilities like the one in Midland, TX, will be encouraged to make exceptions for a small easily adoptable dog like the Scottish Terrier because someone like "US" cared enough to groom it. Please call a shelter today, or send your business card with the offer!

There's a bonus in it for all dogs. WE, as STCA members will give ammunition against the anti-dog, no-breeding movement that is threatening our existence. We will show the individuals who must personally kill America's unwanted dogs day in and day out that serious fanciers like US take responsibility for the dogs WE breed, as well as for the ones that others misbreed.

Postscript: Two days after I groomed Mac, he was adopted. His new owner returned him to Animal Control one day later when he decided he didn't want the dog. Animal Control was glad to have Mac back because they had not considered that first adoption a good situation for him. The workers immediately called a person who had been very disappointed to have missed out on adopting Mac earlier. Mac is in a new home. He has a new start. Will he become a disposable dog again? I don't know.
