

A NEW RAINBOW

One day while I sat bored, and Scotties came to mind I started to think back, and was surprised to find
like Model A's from Ford, they only came in black.

Of course that isn't true.
Scots came in colors, too, but all we saw were blacks, and based upon those facts it seemed from all we knew there was no other hue.

But then I looked around.
In one surprising twist as I researched I found that what I once dismissed as lost still does exist, and now is in rebound.

From wheaten through to black rare shades are coming back.
They're being written down on registration forms as proof of changing norms.
I know. I write down "Brown."

by Lee Netzler