How Old is the Scottish Terrier?

Larry Spence

IT IS my good fortune to have been able to write this article through the courtesy of Mr. Forest N. Hall, who received this book, from which I quote as a Christmas present. The title of the book is "Biographical Sketches and Authentic Anecdotes of Dogs," by one Captain Thomas Brown, published in 1829, in Edinburgh, Scotland. I quote:

The Scotch Terrier (Canis Terrarius) (Variety A).

It is now impossible to trace the origin of the Terrier, but, from the many characteristics peculiar to itself, we would almost be induced to consider it a primitive race. Certain it is, that this dog has been for many ages assiduously cultivated and trained to the particular sports to which nature seems to have adapted him. To the fox, hare, rabbit, badger, polecat, weasel, rat, mouse, and all other kinds of vermin, he is most implacable enemy. He has also a strong antipathy to the domestic cat.

The name Terrier seems to be derived from the avidity with which he takes the earth in pursuit of all animals which burrow.

There are two kinds of Terriers—the rough-haired Scotch and the smooth English.

The Scotch Terrier is certainly the purest in point of breed, and the English seems to have been produced by a cross to him.

The Scotch Terrier is generally low in stature, seldom more than twelve or fourteen inches in height, with a strong muscular body, and short and stout legs; his ears are small and half pricked, his head is rather large in proportion to the size of his body, and the muzzle considerably pointed; his scent is extremely acute, so that he can trace the footsteps of all other animals with certainty; he is generally of a sand color or black. Dogs of these colors are certainly the most hardy, and more to be depended upon. When white or pied, it is a sure mark of impurity in breed. The hair of the Terrier is long, matted, and hard, over almost every part of his body. His bite is extremely keen.

There are three distinct varieties of the Scotch Terrier, viz., the one described above, another about the same size of the former, but with hair much longer, and somewhat flowing, which gives his legs the appearance of being very short. This is the prevailing breed of the Western Islands of Scotland. The third variety is much larger than the former two, being generally fifteen or eighteen inches in height, with the hair very hard and wiry and much shorter peculiarly fit him. On this account he is the universal attendant upon a pack of fox-hounds, and though last in the pursuit, he is not the least in value. Indeed, a brace of these dogs is considered indispensable in a complete fox-hunting establishment, and they are generally of different sizes, so that the smallest may enter an earth which is too large for the other. As soon as the hounds are thrown into the convert, the Terrier becomes the busiest in the field when endeavoring to find the fox; whenever the game is started, and the hounds running breast high, and at their utmost speed, this active little animal is seldom far behind, and is sure to be up at the first check. It is when the fox is supposed to have earthed, that the services of the Terrier are most essentially required; he enters with the utmost eagerness, and soon informs the ear of the sportsman whether or not he is in, and what distance from the mouth, when he is speedily dug out.

The principal objection to the reddish colored Terriers in a pack is that by juvenile sportsmen, in the clamor of a chase, they are frequently hallooed off the fox. (End quote.)

The picture of the Scotch Terrier that is with this article I wish every breeder, owner of a Scotty could see. Much to my surprise he looks very much like our present-day Scot, other than his size. The ears just barely tip. Tail and feet and deep chest are very much the same as today.

than the others. It is from this breed that the best Bull Terriers have been produced.

The Terrier, amongst the higher order of sportsmen, is preserved in its greatest purity and with the most assiduous attention; and it seems of the utmost importance not to increase its size, which would render him unsuitable for the purposes in which he is employed—that of entering the earth to drive out other animals from their burrows, for which his make, strength, and invincible ardour,

News Notes

At the Leicester all-breed Championship show in England on August 6th, Mrs. John G. Winant's recently purchased Walsing Winning Trick, went Best of Breed and won his third and final certificate under Mrs. Cecil J. ("Winnie") Barber. Then H. G. Saunders put him up to his second Best in Show. Thus Winning Trick becomes the first post-war male Champion in the breed.

Mrs. Winant, who had attended every show, said:

"Seeing Pilot (his call name) win his English title and second best-in-show gave me a tremendous thrill, especially as the competition was so hot. There are a lot of good Scottish Terriers in England now, and good ones in other breeds, too. But the more I see of him, the more

I feel sure he is one of the greatest Scottish Terriers of all time." Mrs. Winant was undecided whether to take him home with her when she sails on the Queen Mary the latter part of August, or to let him stay for the two remaining championship shows of the month, Aug. 28 and '30, then, fly him to America.

It is also reported that Mrs. J. Flagler Matthews is bringing over a top dog. If true, the two may continue in America a battle for top honors begun in England.

Show News

Only a few shows to report this month, and entries have been only fair, but the breed did its share of group winning and two Best in Shows are reported.

Alva Rosenberg passed on an entry of 12 at the Springfield, Mass., event on July 13th. The Jos. W. Kellys' had a real field day, taking all top wins. Their Ch. Independent Ben (a Ch. Ortlely Ambassador son) was Best of Breed and second in the group and their Edgerstoune Dahlia was Best of Winners and Best Opposite. She is by Ch. Edgerstoune Spitfire. Another one by Ortlely Ambassador, Kelscot Dougal, got the dog points.

While there were only three at the Erie, Pa., event on July 20, the T. H. Sneathens' Shieling's Master Key went from the classes to Best Terrier. A homebred, he is by Ch. Shieling's Topnotcher.

In an entry of 10 at Mt. Pocono on Aug. 2nd, Mrs. Eleanor H. Loree found her Best of Breed in the Winners Dog, Victory Lad II, owned by Mrs. E. K. Berkovits. He is a son of Ch. Shieling's Salute ex Wave II, and was whelped July 3, 1946—a splendid win for this puppy.

Barberry Knowe Patience, by Ch. Walsing Whirlwind was Winners Bitch and Best Opposite. She is owned by the Chas. C. Stalters.

Although the total entry at the Lake Mohawk show held at Sparta, N. J., on August 3, was 759 dogs, there were only six Scotties entered. Best of Breed honors went to the Winners Dog, Robert McGarrity's Sandy McNab. Winners Bitch and Best Opposite, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. McLoughlin's Lynnscoot Enchantress.

Fourteen was the entry at the Ft. Atkinson, Wis., show on July 20, John Marvin judging. Marie Stone's Ch. Kinclaven The Stooze was Best of Breed and then went on to head the group. It was a great day for Kinclaven Kennels as they had all the top winners. Kinclaven Winter Wheat was Winners Bitch and Best Opposite and Kinclaven Clown was Winners Dog. Winter Wheat is by the wheaten Champion, Kinclaven Wildoats, and The Clown is by Ch. Kinclaven Classic.

There were entries of 13 and 18, respectively, at the Albion and Jackson, Mich., shows held on August 2 and 3. J. J. Duncan judged the first show and Chas. A. Swartz the second day. The T. H. Sneathens' Shieling's Master Key went from the classes to place Best of Breed and topped the group both days, and at Jackson went on to Best in Show All Breeds. The bitch points at Albion went to Shieling's Summary, also owned by the Sneathens, and this honor at Jackson went to Klintilloch Kennels' Deephaven Variation.

Only nine at the Southwestern Kennel Club of Middletown, Ohio, show held at LeSourdsville Lake on August 10. Here, Mr. and Mrs. George LeR. Smith's Bittersweet Spring Robin was Winners Dog, and then went on to Best of Breed, Best Terrier, and Best in Show. John T. Marvin judged the breed, E. D. McQuown the group and Best in Show. G. A. Mitchell's Klintilloch Lorelei was Winners Bitch and Best Opposite. Spring Robin is a homebred by Ch. Hillcote Laddie ex Bittersweet Cress, and Lorelei is a daughter of Ch. Deephaven Fixed Asset ex Klintilloch Rust-Veto.

Eighteen was the entry at the Vallejo, Calif., event on July 20, Thomas Keator judging. Bryce Gillespie's Bothkennar Kilroy was Winners Dog and then went on to Best of Breed, with the Winners Bitch, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Haig's Sweetheart on Parade placing Best Opposite.
